Worried H. G. Wells He Hears Funny Stories And Sees Various Men He Need Not Worry

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1921.

H. G. Wells dined with interesting men in New York on Wednesday. They thought they were studying him; many gave him advice. He was studying them, as Professor Garner, inside his iron cage in the African tropics, studied gorillas and smaller monkeys.

Mr. Wells is short and grown stouter since this writer saw him fifteen years ago. He is so intensely English that you say to yourself, "That CAN'T be natural, he must be putting it on." But he isn't.

He is as diffident as a girl of twelve. His ability has not been depicted by egotism's waste of energy.

He is pathetically in earnest about the desperate condition of the world, and tells men gathered near him that humanity is on a sinking ship.

In reply his American friends, led by Chauncey Depew, in his eighty-eighth year, tell him funny stories. Depew's funniest is about Henry Irving, who thought he was going to enjoy one American dinner without making a speech. Somebody from the West said: "We must not let this occasion pass without a few words from our distinguished," etc. Irving whispered to Depew "God —— his soul!"

All told Wells they did not quite agree with his new history. In the Paleolithic, Neolithic ages, etc., in his dealings with cavemen and primal protoplasm, he was, probably, all right. But they did not see Caesar, Alexander, Napoleon and others as Wells saw them.

Wells bore up well under criticism. He might have replied as Whistler did to the young woman who said, "The sky does not look to me at all as you show it."

"No," replied Whistler. "Don't you wish it did?"

Studying the list of men that dined with him, Wells will realize with interest that he came in contact with many springs and cogwheels in a national machine that represents the real beginning of industrial feudalism, skilled quasi-philanthropic government of men by organized money, on a gigantic scale.

There were bankers and industrialists that develop and accumulate, lawyers that tell them when they go too far or enter the dangerous path. Also newspaper writers, that may be compared to broken pieces of looking glass, giving imperfect, distorted reflections of the civilization before them. There was even one radical, Max Eastman, good-natured, easy-going poet, who thinks he is a Communist. He was allowed to speak, in imitation of the disturbing skull passed around at ancient banquets, to remind eaters and drinkers that there was trouble ahead.

Mr. Wells looked upon these: Judge Gary, head of the biggest industrial concern in the world; McAdoo, who once ran the United States railroads and treasury, both at once; John G. Milburn, foremost lawyer in the United States, able to carry on the work of Choate and Carter; also Samuel Untermyer, marvelously efficient worker in Rabelais' Court of Grippemineaud; Oscar Straus, Ambassador to Constantinople and former member of the Cabinet; J. W. Gerard, who went as Ambassador to Berlin to have a "swell time" and landed in the war; Otto H. Kahn, who owns the Metropolitan Opera and other things more substantial; Charles M. Schwab, who builds battleships and will soon switch to flying machines, which have made the battleship a joke; R. H. Fitch, who ran a good deal of the war for Woodrow Wilson; Frank A. Munsey, who sells hard on the people's pulse and doesn't have to care whether it goes up or down; Adolph S. Ochs and Louis Wiley, known as the "twin fathers" of Times Square, so-called because their underlying theme of advertising treasure would make the Rhine gold seem like petty cash.

There were many others, including Ralph Pulitzer, who gave the party, and, more important perhaps than all put together, Dr. Alexis Carrel, fighting disease with science at the Rockefeller Institute.

When last seen by this writer Carrel was operating on the lung cavity, proving that it is possible by counter-acting atmospheric pressure to remove infected lung tissue in three minutes with loss of not more than two teaspoonfuls of blood.

But nobody said anything to comfort Mr. Wells, who will be still convinced that he is living on a sinking ship, called "good old civilization."

Something comforting must be said here, for Mr. Wells will report the meeting for the Detroit Times, edited by this writer, and it is important that so able a contributor should work with his mind at rest.

Mr. Well's, PLEASE don't worry about "civilization." She is not going to sink. Occasionally she has a chill, shakes down the mighty from their places, reminds the great that they are at the mercy of the little, proves to the little that they are foolish when their conceit rejects intelligent leadership—then the ship steadies herself and goes on.

Human beings looking at history, even a wise human being like Wells, may be compared to microbes that live only a few minutes, contemplating the elevator shaft of a big office building. They see the car going down and say:

MAIL LOST AT SOUTH STATION

No Trace Found of Checks That Vanished on Way to Clearing House

A mail bag containing $20,000 worth of checks of the Dedham National Bank and other first class mail matter has mysteriously disappeared.

Postoffice inspectors are trying to trace the bag. It became known today, and postal authorities in this section were greatly perturbed by the incident.

The bag disappeared after it had reached the South Station. It is now believed, but there all trace of it was lost.

The missing mail pouch was sent from Dedham to Boston on October 15, and most of the letters in it were probably of that date or of the date of October 14.

Little has been made public regarding its disappearance and it was not clear whether the authorities suspected robbery or believed that the bag was lost through the carelessness of postal employes.

The bank checks were on the way to the Boston clearing house.

AUTO BANDITS STEAL PAYROLLS IN 2 CITIES

Philadelphia, Nov. 4.—Five men in an automobile held up two runners of the Corn Exchange National Bank today, robbed them of $5,300 and escaped. The money constituted the payroll of the Roosevelt Worsted Mill, at Twenty-first and Naudain streets.

Detroit, Nov. 4.—Automobile bandits held up the pay car of the Gordon-Page Baking Company and escaped with $4,100 today. The robbers crowded the pay car to the curb, threw pepper into the eyes of the driver and a companion and seized a satchel containing the money.

GIRL AND MOTHER RUN DOWN IN WORCESTER

Worcester, Nov. 4.—A seven-year-old girl is dead and her mother is dying as the result of injuries sustained when they were run down by a heavy motor truck on Chandler street here. The girl was Beverly Choate, who was instantly killed. Her mother, Mrs. James E. Choate, is on the danger list at the City Hospital with a fractured skull and internal injuries.

The driver of the truck said that the headlights of an approaching automobile prevented his seeing the two until they were a scant two feet away.

HERBERT T. ANDREWS

New York, Nov. 4.—Herbert T. Andrews, Wall street broker, who last Spring attracted nation-wide attention to himself when he let it become known that he was living with two wives in an apartment in Jersey City, is in more trouble today.

An indictment has been found against him charging him with the larceny of stocks and bonds, which had been placed in his possession as collateral and not to be sold or transferred.

Andrews after arraignment furnished $5,000 bail pending his trial.

WIFE ACCUSED OF BEATING HER "RIVAL"

Marion Jackson, of Sarsfield street, Roxbury, pleaded not guilty in the Roxbury Court today to a charge of assault and battery on Lucy Berkeley, of Hampshire street, Roxbury. The case was continued. Mrs. Jackson, according to the police, became jealous when she learned that her husband was rooming at the same place where the Berkeley woman lived. The police understand the Berkeley woman was knocked under a carriage.

ADMITS SHE WAS TIPSY; DENIES THROWING INK

Lucy Reese, twenty-two years old and colored, of No. 13 Melrose street, Back Bay, admitted in Roxbury Court today that she had been drunk, but denied she threw the Roxbury Crossing Station into an uproar when she hurled a bottle of ink at Sergeant Sullivan. She was given a suspended sentence on the drunkenness charge and the charge of assault on an officer was dropped.

FREE BOYS ON ASSAULT CHARGE IN ROXBURY

Peter Skehel, William McCollam and James Holden, each seventeen years old, who were arrested Monday charged with assault on Frank Bornstein, of No. 62 Seaver street, Roxbury, were acquitted today in Roxbury Court. It was found that there was not enough evidence to show that the boys had committed the assault.

JAPANESE PREMIER SLAIN

Prime Minister Hara Stabbed to Death at Railway Station in Tokio

Tokio, Nov. 4 (By the Associated Press).—Premier Hara was fatally stabbed in the breast today at the railroad station in Tokio.

The assassination of Premier Hara comes at a dramatic moment when the Japanese delegation is assembling for the Washington conference, and when Japan is intensely interested in the international issues in which Premier Hara has until now taken such an important part.

He had been urged to head the delegation to Washington, and for a time had the matter under consideration, but finally decided that his services would be better employed at home during the discussions at Washington.

He frequently addressed the Japanese Diet concerning the serious work ahead for Japan at Washington, and on October 6 he expressed the view that Japan's chief aim would be to put a end to race barriers. He later conferred with the American ambassador at Tokio and soon afterward announced at a meeting of the government party that Japan was willing to compromise on the Shantung question with China, which had long been a main subject of controversy.

Premier Hara declared in recent statements that apan was ready to accept a limitation of her naval establishment along with the rest of the world, always keeping in mind the necessities of her national defence.

Takashi Hara had been Premier of Japan since 1918 when he formed a Cabinet after the fall of the Terauchi Ministry. He, Sieyu-Kai party of rich he was a leader, taking control. The position of the premier and his party was confirmed by the general election in May, 1920, that party securing a great majority.

Assassination Shock to Jap Delegates Here

Washington, Nov. 4.—News of the assassination of Premier Hara was conveyed to Prince Tokugawa, head of the Japanese conference delegation here by the International News Service.

The Japanese statesman was visibly shocked and dictated the following statement to the International News Service:

"I do not think it well that I make any comment on the reported assassination of Premier Hara, until ye have received advices from the nomi- office.

"The incident, if true, is a sad one and deeply regretted by the delegates to the Armament Conference.

"We expect to be fully advised of the details later in the day or tomorrow and then will be glad to make comment concerning the tragedy and its effect as interpreted by us."

Washington, Nov. 4.—President Harding today signed the Joint Resolution making November 11, 1921, Armistice Day, a legal holiday.

35 APARTMENT OWNERS MUST FACE COURT

Must Explain Disregard of Sprinkler and Fireproof Regulations

Thirty-five owners of ten suites each, housing more than 300 families, were today summoned to appear before Judge Sanderson in Superior Court on November 21 to show cause why their property should not be enjoined from occupancy because the owners have failed to comply with building regulations requiring automatic sprinklers, enclosed stairways and fireproof, self-closing doors.

The affected properties are located as follows:

Nos. 29 Somerset street, 526 Newbury tarect, 153, 155 Massachusetts avenue, 737-743 Tremont street, 42-50 Lewis street, East Boston, 14 Hinchman street, 91 Prince street, 569-571 Columbus avenue, 625 Tremont street, 677 Douglas street, 390-394 Riverway, 73 Stanford street, 29-31 South Margin street, 20-24 Stillman street, 11 Stanford street, 16 South Margin street, 412 Commercial street, 7 South Margin street, 14-16 Cooper street, 18 South Margin street, 65 Charter street 5 Braemore street, 21 Charter street, 416-420-424-428 Hanover street, 82 Compton street 95 Prince street, 25-5 West Second street, South Boston, 220-222-226-228 South street, 3, 5 and 7 Margin street and 147 Endicott street.

WEEKS ASKS PARDON FOR 5 SOLDIER IN SLAYING

Washington, Nov. 4.—Pardon for five American soldiers, convicted by courts-martial with the murder of Captain George Lancefield of the British army in Germany last year, has been recommended by Secretary Weeks. The men, James A. O'Dell, Roy G. Youngblood, George Van Gilder, Carl J. Bryan, and Jim B. Richardson, are serving life sentences in the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan.

CREW OF BURNING SHIP MAY HAVE BEEN SAVED

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 4.—The fate of the crew of a large unidentified vessel reported afire 450 miles southeast of Nova Scotia was still unknown today. The fact that a British tanker reported by wireless that there was no sign of seamen on board aroused hope that they had been taken off by another ship.

OUSTS DRY AIDES FOR GRAFTING

Four More to Go, Field Chief Declares, in Announcing General Clean-Up

Two "dry" agents discovered grafting were summarily discharged today by Prohibition Field Agent Harold D. Wilson.

In admitting the dismissal of his two subordinates, Wilson said that he planned to "fire" four more.

Further removals from offices of prohibition agents may be expected within the next few days, he continued.

Wilson's drastic course and his intention of following it to the end was announced after his return from Washington, where he conferred with his departmental chiefs.

"ACCEPTED GRAFT."

"Boston 'dry' agents have accepted graft," said Wilson, explaining his action. "Some of them have taken money, others have betrayed their trust by 'tipping' violators of the law before raids.

"I'm going to discharge nearly every man carried over from the administration of William F. McCarthy, my predecessor.

"I'm going to make Boston as dry as the proverbial Sahara, and to do it I am going to have a force that I have confidence in."

The prohibition agent added that not all the men he intended to "release" within the next few days were grafters, as he was letting some honest men out of the department "for the good of the service."

"STUPIDITY" DISMISAL.

Stupidity or lack of sympathy with the new regime may be the reason for some dismissals.

Criminal action will not be instituted by Wilson against men he suspects of accepting graft.

Wilson apparently has smoothed out his disagreement with Elmer C. Potter, prohibition director, and today sought to emphasize that his difference of opinion with the director had nothing personal in it.

According to the field agent, some of the men "held over from the McCarthy regime have lost the confidence of the people."

He says that in view of "leaks" of information and other scandals in his department nothing but a complete reorganization will satisfy him.

SCORE OF CHILDREN AMONG VICTIMS

Caused by "Speed, Rum and Carelessness," Says Goodwin; 777 Lose Licenses

Seventy-four persons, twenty of them children, were killed in this State in the "annual October auto slaughter."

State Registrar Frank A. Goodwin today said the dead were "the victims of speed, rum and carelessness."

Though the slaughter was frightful, Mr. Goodwin said, conditions have actually improved. Seven less people were killed than in October a year ago with 50,000 more cars on the road.

Goodwin revoked 777 auto licenses last month. Of these, 592 were of operators charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. Mr. Goodwin said today:—

"As usual, the number of deaths from motor vehicle accidents reaches its highest figure in the month of October.

"Seventy-four persons were sent to their death during the past month, the victims of speed, rum and carelessness. These appalling figures, however, carry with them a little comfort because last year in the same month, with 50,000 less automobiles on the highways, 81 persons were killed.

"In comparing last year's deaths with those of this year another poss-

ASIA, 'SHIP OF TRAGEDY,' IS IN PORT

Grieving Syrians and Armenians Tell of War Havoc in Old Homes

The Fabre liner Asia, a veritable "ship of tragedy," came to port in Boston today and discharged a company of passengers composed of Syrians and Armenians returning to their homes in this country after visiting their native lands in the unsuccessful efforts to reunite their families, scattered in the chaos which followed the great war.

They told a sad story of the sadness that has come upon the Near East. Families have been hopelessly dispersed. Whole villages have disappeared. Besides the Syrians and Armenians the Asia carried a number of merchant marine officers, coming from various ports after disasters to their ships, and two French brides.

PARENTS DISAPPEAR.

Always Filled With Desirable Roomers

These are the rooms whose thrifty owners keep them advertised in the "Furnished Rooms" columns of The American.

They know that a vacant room means a loss of income, and they know also that such a loss is unnecessary, because in Boston there is a never-failing agency for renting rooms, and that is The American's Want Ad columns.

If you have homeless rooms to rent or if one of your rooms is planning to leave you soon, get your ad in at once saying where you are located and the advantages which your rooms offer. In this way you need never be without a full house and your income will not suffer.

ing result is shown in the great reduction in the number of children killed. Last year there were 52 children killed and this year 26. Last year there were 49 adults killed; this year 54.

"The month of October just passed discloses two other records—first, 777 licenses and registrations were revoked or suspended, which is the largest number by more than 100 ever taken away in one month, and, second, 202 operators had their licenses taken away for operating under the influence of liquor.

"Most of the bad accidents were directly traceable to excessive speed, and in a large number of cases the operator was under the influence of liquor. It is apparent that there must be a general tightening up on the part of the police and the courts if these daily tragedies are to be lessened."

MILLIONS LOST IN NEW JERSEY PIER FIRE

Barges and Box Cars, Loaded With Freight, Destroyed in Weehawken Blaze

Weehawken, N. J., Nov. 4.—The Erie Railroad's Weehawken piers and waterfront yards were laid waste early today by one of the most spectacular fires the metropolitan area has witnessed in years.

Five piers, all heavily laden with freight; a five-story flour warehouse; thirty loaded barges; a train of thirty loaded freight cars, and another of five oil tanks were destroyed. Early estimates of the loss ranged from $1,000,000 up. But the figures were frankly guesses, and will remain speculative until a check can be made of the variegated shipments that were in transit.

Later estimates placed the loss as high as $5,000,000.

The fire was discovered shortly before midnight on Pier C. Within an hour it had swept over nearly a half-mile of waterfront, illuminating the sky for miles around, and drawing great throngs of spectators to the Jersey and Manhattan sides of the Hudson.

A strong breez that fanned the flames carried burning embers across the river, showering them down on the New York waterfront and carrying some as far as Times square. Crews of several steamships on the Manhattan side were called out to quench great clusters of blazing cinders that rained down on the ships.

One of the doomed piers was leased to the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and contained several thousand barrels of crude oil. A series of minor explosions occurred when the flames ate their way into this pier.

Fireboats from New York and every available piece of fire apparatus from Hoboken, Jersey City, and other New Jersey towns were called out to aid the Weehawken force in the unequal struggle, but confined their efforts to preventing further spread of the fire. Three firemen were seriously injured when the roof of one of the piers collapsed under them.

The fire was the third to occur on Erie railroad property within six weeks. Six weeks ago fire was discovered in the machine shops at Jersey City and two weeks ago on a Jersey City pier. Both were quickly quished before much damage had been done.

UP FOR NON-SUPPORT, ACCUSED OF AUTO THEFT

Patrick Keegan, of Rockland street, Roxbury, arrested today on a charge of non-support of his wife and four children, faced the additional charge of the larceny of an automobile and diamond ring valued at $2,100 when he appeared in Roxbury Court. The car and the ring are the property of Catherine McCoon of Milford, Pennsylvania, according to the police. Both cases were continued until December 5.

TODAY

"My goodness! It's going down! There will be a horrible bump in a minute." But there isn't any bump. It just goes down.

By and by they see the car going up, and say: "Hello! It's going up! Look how fast! You will hear a smash pretty soon when it goes through the roof." But it doesn't.

The elevator of history has been going up and down all the time. Life has been getting better, and is getting better now. There are two powers in the British Islands, England and Ireland, and they are having trouble. When William the Conqueror went over there were twenty-two separate and quarrelling powers in England alone. That's improvement.

When Louis the Eleventh lived a dozen powers were fighting in France. One, of Burgundy, was greater than the French king. Many kinds of weight, measures and money confused things. Now there is only the big French republic. That's progress.

Wells is worried because the late war was so much more brutal and horrible than any other. He says the difference is between boys fighting each other with wooden swords and grown men murdering each other with deadly science.

This war was NOT as bad as other wars. Those that conquered did not butcher women or young children. When you leave women and children, only killing off a few million men, you don't hurt civilization much. By getting rid of those most anxious to fight you may help.

Wells himself is living proof of civilization's development.

With no start in life, no fortune, no office, nothing but an earnest brain and love of his fellow men, he is one of the great powers at work in the world.

SEES PELLETIER-CURLEY PACT

"Mr. Pelletier and Mr. Curley have had an alliance, offensive and defensive, for many years and are settling their difficulties on terms that have not been given out, and never will be, to the public."

"We are fighting today men who, by their insidious methods, threaten not only the well-being but the life of our beloved Boston. The issue is clear and defined. On one side are the forces that toil not, neither do they spin; who scoff at honor in public office and believe that Boston is an orange to be squeezed, from the juice of which they will wax rich and powerful. On the other side are arrayed the forces of law and order, who believe that honesty should govern our city and protect our citizens."

—From high lights of John R. Murphy's first speech in mayoralty campaign, delivered in Roughan Hall, Charlestown.

In a speech bristling with sensational exposures of James M. Curley's conduct as Mayor and bitterly scoring both Curley and District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier for alleged conspiracy to raise the torch of religious bigotry, John R. Murphy began his campaign for Mayor at a monster rally in Charlestown arranged by his friends and neighbors.

Appealing to the men and women voters to rise in their might and "save Boston from the ravages of the vandals who, if they are not beaten, will make of her a dishonor among her sister cities," Mr. Murphy made a terrific attack upon his opponents.

"We are fighting today," he said, "men, who, by their insidious methods, threaten not only the well-being but the life of our beloved Boston.

"The issue is clear and defined. On one side are the forces which toil not, neither do they spin; who scoff at honor in public office, and believe that Boston is an orange to be squeezed, from the juice of which they will wax rich and powerful. On the other side are arrayed the forces who believe that honesty should govern our city and protect our citizens."

CAYS WASTE TO CURLEY.

Mr. Murphy delivered one blow after another in quick succession. He declared:

That Messrs. Pelletier and Curley, having had an offensive and defensive alliance for years "are now settling their difficulties on terms that have not been given out and never will be, to the public."

Baxter is the fifth wheel of Curley's coach, he said, and Daniel W. Lane, also an avowed candidate, is a trial horse for Mr. Pelletier.

That the statement of an indorsement of his candidacy by the Loyal Coalition "is absolutely untrue." The only time he ever saw Demarest Lloyd, he said, was when he debated against Lloyd on Ireland's right to be free.

Pelletier, he said, has no justifiable reason for going before the voters for the trial of his case. He quoted Mr. Pelletier as having said in a speech in Faneuil Hall that such a policy was "monstrous." He said Pelletier then said, "As well abolish our courts and try our issues in civil cases at the polls, try our lawbreakers at the polls!"

He charged that the Curley administration squandered thousands and thousands of dollars of the people's money in the purchase of unfit fire equipment, and gave about twenty illustrations of the alleged squandering.

Curley cut the city employes' pay, he charged, and threatened to discharge them for the purpose of placing them and their friends under obligation to him. He treated them as slaves, denying them the right of free voting, and forced them into bitter political contests in which they had no interest, Mr. Murphy charged.

Mr. Murphy set forth his own idea of a constructive program to meet the needs of a growing Boston, and in closing appealed for the defeat of the "vandals" who, he said, "would bring dishonor to the city."

DEBATED WITH LLOYD.

Referring to the Loyal Coalition "indorsement," he said:

"This statement is absolutely untrue. I have received no communication from that organization at any time. I have met Mr. Lloyd once.

"On December 6, 1920, in Providence, before 1,500 representative professional and business men at the Economic Club, I participated in a joint debate, the question being the right of Ireland to self-determination.

"Upon one side were Demarest Lloyd, president of the Loyal Coalition, and F. W. Wilson, former member of the House of Commons and author of 'The Irish Cause,' Mr. Lloyd and Mr. Wilson supported the negative.

"Justice Daniel F. Cohalan of the Supreme Court of New York, and I were on the affirmative side and supported the cause of Ireland.

"The original charge that I was endorsed was made in a paper published in Boston and subsequently denied by Mr. Lloyd. The paper has issued sorre heads in making the charge, but in publishing the letter of denial of Mr. Lloyd's, placed it in a very inconspicuous corner."

MRS. YETTEN IS HAPPY OVER VINDICATION

Jealousy Sent Her to Jail for One Night, She Declares

"It was jealousy that sent me to jail for one night, separated from my husband and heaped a year of disgrace, suffering and hardship on my head."

With these words Mrs. Elaine Yetten, Brookline and Waltham beauty, central figure in the now famous "hope chest larceny case" which stirred Waltham society circles a year ago and which was not pressed yesterday by District Attorney Saltonstall of Middlesex county, lays all blame at the feet of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Lucille Aibre.

It is this sister who startled Waltham a year ago last October by accusing Mrs. Yetten with breaking into the home of Mrs. Carolyn Yetten, mother-in-law of Elaine, and stealing $2,000 worth of property from the "hope chest" of Lucille.

EVIDENCE LACKING.

Mrs. Yetten denied the charge and the case dragged on until it was not pressed by the present District Attorney, who stated that he could not find sufficient evidence to convict.

"I still maintain that I was absolutely innocent," said Mrs. Yetten. "It was not a case of guilt in the first place.

"I was the pet of my mother-in-law, much to the chagrin of my sister-in-law. My mother-in-law, for some time after her son and I were married, thought I was just about right. But not so my sister-in-law. She did not like me.

"It has been a bitter year that I have put in since that cruel arrest on October 27 of last year. Can you imagine the suffering I experienced when I was locked up at the police station that first night? It was terrible—and I an innocent woman.

"As a result of the shock of the arrest and appearance in court I was taken ill and had to be removed to a hospital. Not until last March did I regain my health.

"My home was ruined as a result of the charge, for my husband left me on the night of my arrest.

ELOPED TO NEW YORK.

Mrs. Lucille Aibre is the wife of Harold Aibre of Aberdeen, Maryland, having married since the arrest of Mrs. Yetten. Mrs. Carolyn Yetten, mother-in-law of Mrs. Yetten, is prominent in Waltham. She was president of the Waltham Mothers' Club last year, and this year is prominently connected with the federation of women's clubs.

The young Mrs. Yetten created somewhat of a sensation in Waltham when she and her husband, LeBaron Yetten, eloped and were married in New York. On the return of the couple Yetten resumed his position with the Gilbert Express Company, where he is still employed.

ULSTER GOVERNMENT SELECTS NEW JERSEY MAN

Belfast, Nov. 4.—Sir James Craig, the Premier, who is about to leave for London for consultations over the question of an Irish settlement, presided over a meeting of the Ulster Cabinet held this morning. At this session John Milne Barbour, member of a Paterson, N. J., family, was installed as Finance Minister temporarily, owing to a breakdown in the health of the incumbent, Hugh McDowell Pollock.

ALL UNION COAL MINERS IDLE IN INDIANA

More Quit When Operators Obey Court and Abolish Check-Off System

By Associated Press.

Terre Haute, Ind., Nov. 4. — Every union coal miner in Indiana was idle today according to John Hessler, district president of the United Mine workers of America. For this reason, he said no formal strike order would be issued.

Reports received at union headquarters and at the Operators' Coal Trade Bureau showed every mine having railroad shipping facilities was closed, and that the few wagon mines in operation had an aggregate daily production of 1,000 tons.

The complete walkout of the union workers followowed the action of the operators, in deciding to abolish the "check off" as provided by the Federal court injunction.

Twenty-five thousand men had been idle for the last two days and the increase today was estimated to bring the total number to 28,000.

appeared as if the ground had swallowed them. Nobody he knew was alive in his native village.

But Amen was luckier than many of his fellow countrymen in his pilgrimage for, to console himself for his sorrows, he married an eighteen-year-old Syrian girl and brought her back to America.

Another passenger of interest to his shipmates was Rev. Kas Khoury, who was a clergyman in New York thirty-five years ago, and has two sons now living in Boston. He went back about thirty-three years ago to work in his native land. But the war and the atrocities which followed it discouraged him.

"There is no Syria any more," he said, and added that he had come to America to spend his declining years with his children.

BRINGS BACK BRIDE.

Edgar Fiebelman, formerly an attache of the American consulate in Madagascar, came back with a French bride. Incidentally, he was lucky to get in, for he had thoughtlessly taken the journey on a French passport. The French quota of immigrants for the month was exhausted and it took some time to prove his American citizenship.

The American merchant marine officers including Thurston Cole of Portland, Me., and George Lindner of Springfield, O., Cole's ship was dismasted off Madeira and is now in for repairs. Lindner's ship is laid up in Morocco for repairs.

Jules Michel, a French 'cellist, was among the cabin passengers. He is to do a concert tour in America.

Receivers for Brockton Firm

Judge James M. Morton, Jr., today appointed the following receivers for the S. Lipsit Shoe Company of Brockton, petitioned into bankruptcy last week: Joh nW. McAnarney, Boston lawyer; Ira Mosier, Boston shoe man, and Edwin C. Bent of Lynn.

A VERY GOOD IDEA!

It is a good idea to read advertisements.

SWEARS HE SHOT AND KILLED CHUM AT REQUEST OF HIS VICTIM

SAYS TWO KISSED AT SLAYING

By Associated Press.

New York, Nov. 4.—A story as grim as those of the most real of Russian realists was told today in police headquarters.

It concerned Frank Passyno, a ship's carpenter, found shot to death in a Russian cemetery at South River, N. J., last Sunday. It came from the lips of Alexander Savin, his chum, who was arrested as a fugitive from justice and held on a charge of homicide.

This is the confession Savin is alleged to have made to the police:

That, out of work for four months, Passyno had become despondent and tried in vain to starve himself to death; that at last he had asked Savin to shoot him; that Savin had refused but had been met with a threat of death himself; that last Sunday the two had gone from their room in the city to the Russian cemetery across the Hudson.

That the two had embraced and kissed; that Savin had fired three shots without hitting his chum; that Passyno then had asked him to pause until he had given his last five dollars to his executioner as a reward; that the fourth shot had done the work.

Savin, according to the police, added that he had dragged the body to a place where passersby might more easily find it. This resulted in discovery of the body and establishing of Passyno's identity through analysis by a Baltimore oculist of lenses in the dead man's glasses.

Savin was alleged to have told the police that the thought of suicide had reoccurred often to the mind of his chum when luck seemed against him.

Savin said he had pleaded with his friend not to take his own life, and Passyno finally had promised. But die he must, Passyno said, according to the Savin confession, and insisted that his friend, to prove his loyalty, must kill him.

A perplexing development was the discovery of $400 deposited in a bank to Passyno's credit.

BIG GUARD FOR DUTY AT SACCO HEARING

Constabulary and Police, Heavily Armed, Assigned to Dedham

A force of State constabulary officers, some mounted on horse, others equipped with high-powered motor cars and all f them chavily armed, will guard the Norfolk County Jail tonight and the Dedham Courthouse tomorrow to prevent any outbreaks or demonstrations during the Sacco-Vanzetti hearing.

State Commissioner of Public Safety Alfred F. Foote today announced the military-police preparations which, he said, will be taken at the request of Sheriff Samuel H. Capen.

Foote said they fear no outbreak by the immediate friends and sympathizers of Sacco and Vanzetti but the police arrangements are "a reasonable precaution," taken at Capen's request.

The two prisoners will reappear before Judge Thayer on their motion for a new trial. A jury rendered a verdict of guilty on the charge that they murdered a Braintree paymaster.

Recent dynamite plots against American ambassadors in foreign capitals are alleged by the police to have resulted from dissatisfaction with the verdict against the men.

FAVOR DR. BALLOU AS BOSTON SCHOOL HEAD

Dispatches from Washington today stated that Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools there and formerly assistant in Boston, was being considered by the Boston School Board as a possible successor to Frank V. Thompson, superintendent of Boston schools, who died last week.

Dr. Ballou has notified the Washington school authorities that he is being considered, according to the same dispatches. He has a three-year contract with the Washington School Board, but would probably be able to break it in case he was determined to come here.

England to Pause for 2 Minutes in Tribute to War Dead

By International News Service.

London, Nov. 4.—All activities will cease for a period of two minutes, as a mark of respect for the nation's war dead when Armistice Day is celebrated one week from today. Beginning at 11 o'clock in the morning, all industry and traffic of every sort will come to a standstill, as it did in 1919, the official program calling for two minutes of silence," as a tribute to the dead.

The chief ceremony will take place in this city at the Cenotaph, the memorial to the empire's war dead.

3 BREWERIES IN BOSTON SEEK BEER PERMITS

Ready to Start Manufacture as Soon as Authorized by Washington

Three Boston breweries have already filed applications with Prohibition Commissioner Haynes in Washington for permission to manufacture real, pre-Volstead beer, in accordance with the new regulations permitting the prescription sale of the beverage.

These companies are the Commercial Brewing Co., Hudson Brewing Co., Suffolk Brewing Co. Officials at the Suffolk Brewing Co. said that they, also, would file their application shortly.

It is expected that at least a week must elapse before the applications can be passed on in Washington, approved and returned to Boston. As soon as this is done, provided that the permits are issued, the above named concerns will take up the work of making beer just where they left off on July 1, 1919.

The beer thus manufactured will be sold on doctors' prescriptions. Whether or not it will contain 2.75 per cent. alcohol or must be obtained direct from the breweries is not as yet known.

The new regulations contain no proviso as to the percentage of the beer.

$10,000,000 for Enforcement; First Permits to Brewers

By Associated Press.

Washington, Nov. 4.—Congress will be asked for ten million dollars for the enforcement of prohibition during the next fiscal year, an increase of $2,500,000 over the appropriation for the current year.

Prohibition Commissioner Haynes, in making this announcement today, said the increase would be sought to enable a more complete and efficient enforcement of the prohibition laws through enlarged forces and facilities.

Prohibition Commissioner Haynes approved today the first two applications from brewers for permits to manufacture and sell beer for medical purposes.

The applications were from Joseph Schlitz of Milwaukee and Piel Brothers of New York, and officials said the permits for them to engage in the medical beer business would be forwarded at once.

Other applications from brewers for permits, officials said, would be acted upon readily, and where there was no evidence of prior violation of the law or irregularity in the preparations for dealing in medical beer the necessary permits would be forthcoming.

Before the distribution of medical beer to the sick can begin, Commissioner Haynes explained, both physicians and druggist must obtain new permits to enable them to prescribe and sell it. Applications for these permits, he added, are made to State directors and issued by them.

In connection with prescriptions for beer, Mr. Haynes added, a point yet to be decided is whether a physician is limited to the 100 prescriptions every three months as is now the rule, or whether under the new regulations he is entitled to more prescriptions for beer.

SENATORS WILL PROBE ARMY HANGINGS

Heated Debate as Watson of Georgia Tells of Basis for Charges

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 4.—General Pershing declared here today that charges brought in the senate by Senator Watson were "the most outrageous and untrue accusations that could possibly be made and absolutely without foundation."

Washington, Nov. 4.—A new resolution ordering a special committee to investigate charges of Senator Watson of Georgia, regarding treatment of soldiers in the American Expeditionary Forces, was adopted unanimously today by the Senate after a two hours' wrangle.

The Senate also adopted unanimously another resolution by Senator Brandegee of Connecticut, chairman of the special committee, authorizing the committee to subpoena witnesses and documents, but left unsettled the question as to the exact charges of Senator Watson which were to be investigated.

STORY OF A SOLDIER.

The Georgia Senator presented the basis for his charges during another period of heated debate on the subject. He read a telegram from a soldier, whose name was not disclosed, saying that a gallows on which soldiers were hanged without trial was at Gievres, France, and that a guard had told him that other men were to be hanged on it.

"That is the information on which I based my statements," said Watson.

The Georgia Senator declared that the soldier, who, he said, had served four years in the army, would "face the Senate and answer any questions as bravely as he faced the Germans."

"Expel me if you like for that," said Senator Watson to the Republican side. "You've got the votes, go ahead and do it. Is the Republican majority scared? Why not debate this here in the open and meet me face to face? Why try to entrap me and cage me and silence me in a committee room? It's cheaper and thing cheaper in this country than human life it's a whitewashing committee report."

MORE EVIDENCE.

Senator Watson said he had "further evidence fresh from the mails this morning," and read from a magazine quoting an unnamed officer as saying that he was informed that the Red Cross "had built a gallows for the A. E. F. on which to hang men, and asking that all records of the transaction be removed from the files and burned."

Senator Edge of New Jersey opened with severe criticism of the Georgia Senator for attempting to place in the Congressional Record a photograph of a gallows said to have been used by the army in France.

Senator Edge said that Mr. Watson had not requested publication of the article printed with the photograph in a Passaic (N. J.) newspaper. The article showed, Mr. Edge added, that it was used for a legal execution after a court-martial for an attack on a seven-year-old French girl, who died from the effects of the assault.

"The issue in this case cannot be camouflaged," said Senator Edge. "The picture of a gallows used for punishment of a brute is no justification of the charges of the senator from Georgia. He cannot cover them over with photographs and reproductions he offered yesterday. The American people want to know the facts, to have the senator's charges proven or disproven by uncontroverted evidence."

Senator Lodge cut the Georgia Senator short by demanding the regular order of business and the Senate went to the consideration of memorials and petitions.

RETAIL FOOD COST GOES DOWN SLOWLY

Washington, Nov. 4.—The retail cost of food in some cities is coming down, but in many instances it is so small as to be hardly noticeable, according to figures made public today by the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the Department of Labor. The figures are for seven principal cities and show that retail food prices during the month from September 15 to October 15 decreased two-tenths of 1 per cent in St. Paul, four-tenths of 1 per cent. in Little Rock, 1 per cent. in Manchester, N. H., New Haven, Portland, Me., Richmond, Va., and Washington.

In Omaha there was an increase of 2 per cent. and in Memphis an increase of 1 per cent. There was no change during the month in Baltimore, Kansas City and Philadelphia.

ROB HAVERHILL GARAGE, THEN CARRY LOOT BACK

Haverhill, Nov. 4.—Four men, believed by the police to be motor bandits with a $5,000 limousine bearing stolen number plates, broke into the garage owned by George F. Ramsey at Lake Whittier, stole a battery worth $53 and a lot of tools.

They carried the loot back to the garage and left it when they were unable to drive their machine more than 100 yards through lack of gasoline. The number plates were found to belong to Peter O'Neil, Salem, who has reported the theft of his machine to the Salem police.

7 HIGH SCHOOL BOYS CALLED INTO COURT

Must Tell What They Know of Drinking After Dance in Middletown

New London, Ct., Nov. 4.—The liquor situation in Middletown has taken a new turn with the discovery that seven students at the Middletown High School have been ordered to appear before Judge Warner in City Court for an alleged drinking affair Monday evening.

Prosecuting Attorney B. E. Spencer said today that the students will be in court, but said that he did not at this time feel justified in giving out the names of the boys involved.

One of the students was said to have secured liquor in a store on Court street and consumed it after a masquerade dance held in the high school auditorium.

Two of the students were reported so intoxicated that they were helpless and were found later by others who told of the matter to the authorities.

Edward B. Sellew, superintendent of city schools, said he had conducted a full investigation of the matter and found none of the drinking occurred in the school. There was no liquor at the masquerade dance, and he thought the drinking must have occurred after the dance.

The dance was given solely for the students and members of the faculty and there were no outsiders present. It was over shortly after 10 p. m.

PASTOR'S WIDOW IS KILLED BY AN AUTO

Mrs. G. W. Washburn, sixty-eight years old, of No. 126 Englewood avenue, Brighton, dies at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital as the result of injuries received when she was struck and knocked down by an automobile, near Cooper road, Brookline. George W. Caldwell of No. 4 Humboldt avenue, Roxbury, driver of the machine, was arrested, charged with manslaughter. Mrs. Washburn was the widow of the late Rev. Alfred F. Washburn, once pastor of churches in Cambridge and South Boston.

POSTMASTER ACCUSED OF EMBEZZLING $1,558

Pittsfield, Nov. 4.—Postmaster Horace E. Hickock of Glendale, a suburb of Stockbridge, and a widely known church man, under arrest charged with embezzlement of $1,558 of postal funds.

The sum named represents receipts on money orders from April to October 20 of this year, which, it is charged, Hickock failed to turn over to the postal department at Washington.

"PAY DAY" BRINGS PROFIT TO WELLESLEY

"Pay Day" was celebrated at Wellesley College with such success that all the college activities, from the dramatic association to the athletic association, have profited greatly. Pay Day is the day on which every Wellesley student pays the dues she owes to the various college organizations. Harriet Kirkham, of Springfield, treasurer of the senior class, reported a very successful day.

MAN AND WOMAN HELD IN NEWBURYPORT MURDER

Newburyport, Nov. 4.—Joseph Lombardi of South Boston and Elisabeth Montrosi, who are charged with murdering Dominic Ticoni at his home, No. 19 Kent street, this city, October 25, were bound over for the grand jury at the hearing in the District Court here before Judge Simpson. They were held without bail.

GRAND OPERA BY SAN CARLO CAST OPENS TONIGHT

Society to Witness Professional Debut of Braggiotti Sisters on Armistice Day

Two of the most popular members of Boston society, Miss Bertha Braggiotti and Miss Francesca Braggiotti, are going to lend their assistance in making the two weeks' subscription season of the San Carlo Grand Opera, which commences its engagement at the Boston Opera House this evening, a success. They are going to dance in two of the operas.

Although they have often appeared with the Vincent Club shows and at private and public entertainments this is the first time that these beautiful sisters have appeared as regular members of a professional organization.

APPEAR IN AID.

The first opera in which they will appear will be "Aida" on Friday evening, November 11. They will dance in the spectacular ballet, which is one of the features of this colorful opera.

Their second appearance will be at the benefit performance of Hansel and Gretel, which will be given as the Wednesday matinee opera on November 16. The Misses Braggiotti will appear in a special dance that will immediately follow the opera, which is a short one. The performance is for the benefit of the Camp Fire Girls, and by special arrangement the curtain will be held until 2 o'clock, instead of commencing at the usual hour of 2:15 o'clock.

SOCIETY TO ATTEND.

They plan to present a beautiful symbolical dance entitled "The Reapers," a dance that is remarkable for its rhythmic simplicity and in harmony with the pretty fairy tale story that the opera of "Hansel and Gretel" is built upon.

Many members of the Vincent Club have taken boxes and orchestra seats especially for these two operas as have many society leaders, including Mrs. J. Montgomery Sears and Mrs. George H. Monks, as well as many others previously announced.

ATTEMPT TO RESCUE MAN BURIED IN SAND

Wanaque, N. J., Nov. 4.—Laborers in relays today continued feverish attempts to reach William Graham, an iron worker, buried in fifty feet of sand Wednesday afternoon in a cave-in of a trench. Only faint hope was held that he would be found alive.

SOLDIER ALIVE, A NEW 'ENOCH ARDEN' STORY

Woman, Getting False Report of Husband's Death, Weds Again

Another of the strange "Enoch Arden" marital tragedies evolved by the war came to light today, when Mrs. Margaret Murray Burns of Wrentham filed in Superior Court a petition asking the annulment of her marriage to Richard Burns.

Mrs. Burns declared in her petition that her first husband, Wilmer H. Dorsett of Montreal, who was reported in 1918 as killed in action while a member of the A. E. F., is still alive.

The suit brings to light one of the strangest, most pitiful mixups ever reported. Mrs. Burns married Dorsett in 1911 at Ayer. A few months later he disappeared.

Then came the war. Dorsett went to France as a soldier. His death was reported by the government to Mrs. Dorsett in the Summer of 1918. She thought herself a free woman.

A little more than a year later she married Burns at Wrentham. This was on December 30, 1919. They made their home there, lived happily, and Dorsett's memory became only a fading shadow on the horizon of Mrs. Burns' mind.

Last June Mrs. Burns was in Nashua, N. H. Walking down the street, she came face to face with Dorsett, her first husband, erroneously reported killed.

Exactly what transpired at that meeting is not known. At any rate, while she did not go away with Dorsett, she gave up Burns. Dorsett returned to Montreal; Mrs. Burns stayed in Wrentham.

And so today Mrs. Burns sued to have her marriage annulled. But her suit does not ask a legal separation from Dorsett, who left her ten years ago, whom she had not seen since a short time after she married him. It asks that the marriage with Burns be cancelled.

STATE IRISH CHIEF IS CALLED TO WASHINGTON

Worcester, Nov. 4.—John F. Harrigan, State president of the A. A. H. & B., has gone to Washington in response to an urgent telegram from Harry Boland, secretary to President De Valera. Mr. Boland has an important message to give to leaders of the Irish movement in America. Mr. Harrigan stated on leaving last night that things seem brighter now than at any time in the past.

BOXING REFEREE IS SAVED FROM NASHUA MOB

Joseph McCarthy Escorted to State Line by Police After Unpopular Decision

Nashua, N. H., Nov. 4.—Joseph McCarthy, a licensed boxing referee of Boston, was escorted over the State line by Nashua police early today, following a decision handed down by McCarthy in the main bout of a fight program in the Olympia Theatre here last night. McCarthy was saved from violence at the hands of the furious crowd by the special guard of police rushed to the building.

The main bout was between Johnny Shephard of Woburn, Mass., and "Doddy" O'Neal, flyweight champion of New England.

Immediately after McCarthy awarded the decision to the challenger, Shephard, the two judges, City Solicitor Thomas J. Leonard and Arthur Michard, jumped into the ring and holding up their hands for silence to the yelling throng that packed the house, announced they had both voted for a draw.

At this the mob of fight fans, already furious, surged over the seats towards McCarthy, who was standing in the ring.

Chief of Police Irving F. Goodwin, who was in charge of the police guard at the building, immediately had his men surround the referee. After the mob had been quieted the police took McCarthy and escorted him to the State line, four miles from Nashua.

Chief Goodwin announced later that he intends investigating McCarthy's claim that under the rules he was compelled to give the decision to Shephard. If this claim is not substantiated, said the chief, he would ask for the revocation of the referee's licence.

LEGION MEN OF NEW ENGLAND TOUR DETROIT

Delegates Will Spend Tomorrow In Montreal and Start Home Sunday

By CHARLES O. POWER.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 4.—Today will be spent by the big New England delegation, homeward bound from the national convention of the American Legion at Kansas City, in seeing the sights of this great city of the automobile industry. Late this afternoon two leave for Montreal and will spend tomorrow there, leaving for Boston Sunday morning.

Mrs. Clarence R. Edwards was with the party as far as Chicago, going from there to Niagara Falls, her native city, to spend a few days with her mother and sister. The latter has been in Paris the last two years, and Mrs. Edwards is anticipating a pleasant reunion.

General Edward L. Logan and wife travelled with the party to Detroit. They are going to attend the football game in Princeton, tomorrow, and expect to arrive home Sunday evening, when the general hopes to find a telegram from the managers of the tours of Marshal Foch of France, stating when the hero will reach Boston and how long he will be able to stay there.

Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. Logan have had "a wonderful time."

"It has been perfectly splendid," says Mrs. Edwards, "and I am very much pleased and happy and proud to think I have had a part in the thrilling convention of the Legion and the first national gathering of the fine women who represented the auxiliary. I have never seen such a truly representative meeting of real American womanhood, and I cannot tell how proud I am of the Massachusetts delegation."

I strayed into the women's headquarters, after the Kansas convention adjournment, and met two delegates from North Carolina. One was an elderly lady in black who had lost her only son in the war. She was proud of the South, proud of her State and she was prouder of her lost boy than anything. I told her she looked a lot like Mrs. Edwards. Quick as a flash she retorted:

"Thank God, at last I have been complimented. She is such a sweet woman."

WOMAN GOLF CHAMPION SUES RICH HUSBAND

Millionaire Hurd's Romance Shattered; Wife Wants Separation and Alimony

By Universal Service.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 4.—The hitherto happy married life of Dorothy Campbell Hurd, who has won more golf titles than any other woman in the world, and Jack V. Hurd, millionaire clubman of this city, appears to be shattered.

Mrs. Hurd has filed suit for a separation, declaring among other things that her husband had subjected her to indignities. She asks for alimony in an amount not to exceed one-third of his income.

Mrs. Hurd was originally from Scotland where she learned to play golf. She is the former British-American and Canadian women's champion.

WORCESTER TAILOR DENIES WIFE'S CHARGE

Worcester, Nov. 4.—Harry Goodman is a prominent tailor of this city, and in court, where his wife's suit for divorce is being tried, he announced that he wanted all of Worcester and the world to know that never did he threaten to bore a large ragged hole through his wife's body with a revolver, as she says he did. An interlocutory decree is pending, ordering Goodman to pay $25 weekly for the support of his wife and children and $45 monthly for rent of their apartment. The case was continued a week.

STRIKE DRIVERS DRAGGED FROM MILK TRUCKS

Thousands of Gallons Dumped by Sympathizers; Price Advances to 40 Cents

New York, Nov. 4.—Threats by municipal authorities to take over the plants and pasteurization facilities of the milk distributors today spurred the distributors to renewed efforts to increase supplies to dealers and consumers, despite the strike of 12,000 drivers.

Violence featured the strike throughout the city last night and early today, riots resulting in several broken skulls. Thousands of gallons of milk were dumped by strike sympathizers.

Drivers, who attempted to take out trucks loaded with milk, were stoned, and in some cases dragged from their trucks and beaten. One dealer and his helper were beaten to unconsciousness by strike sympathizers, following stoning of a delivery wagon. Police rushed a mob with drawn revolvers. They arrested one man and the strikers attempted to rescue him from the police. A free-for-all fight resulted, in which police used their clubs freely, finally putting the mob to rout.

In many instances milk peddlers were found to be charging as high as 40 cents a quart for milk. There was a ready market even at this price, as many families were glad to pay any price to get milk for babies.

Health Commissioner Copeland warned the distributors that unless the milk supply was doubled today he will seize the plants.

Distributors promised to have more men at work, and said they had already employed 4,000 new men. They held that supplies were 60 per cent. normal.

One man was in a hospital in a serious condition and two others were hurt by bricks thrown during strikers' attacks upon milk wagons. Forty arrests were made in these attacks.

Magistrates before whom those arrested were arraigned scored the strikers' disregard for the public and threatened to impose severe sentences on rioters.

2 GIRLS IN AUTO HOLDUP ARE HUNTED

Peabody Victim, Robbed and Beaten Unconscious, Accuses "Old Friend"

Two pretty girls were the bait that lured Thomas Katcherkes, No. 46 Walnut street, Peabody, to join a party of four in an auto ride that ended when he was blackjacked, robbed of $140 and left unconscious on the roadside near the Belmont line, Cambridge.

Katcherkes was found an hour later by Mrs. E. A. Cunningham of Belmont, and hurried to the Cambridge Hospital, where he was said today to be in a serious condition from the injuries he received.

He revived sufficiently early today to give the Cambridge police the story of the circumstances leading up to the attack, and of the auto and occupants.

A general alarm was sent out by the Cambridge officials for the car.

According to the story told by the injured man, he met yesterday an old friend, James Stachnoplis. The two women were with Stachnoplis, and one of them was introduced, according to Katcherkes, as Mrs. Stachnoplis. The other said she lived in Newburyport.

The party invited Katcherkes to go for a hunting with them and he agreed. They all walked from Peabody to Salem. There Stachnoplis left the others for a short time and returned with a chauffeur whom Stachnoplis appeared to know intimately, said Katcherkes.

It was dark and nearing 7 o'clock when the car reached Cambridge and came to a stop near the Tuberculosis Hospital. According to Katcherkes, Stachnoplis then asked him to get out of the car for a moment as the seat had to be lifted to get a wrench.

As Katcherkes alighted from the machine, some one struck him a heavy blow on the head with a blackjack. He stumbled forward on his hands and knees and the blackjack rained blows upon him until he lost consciousness.

The last thing he can remember of the affray was the tinkling laughter of the two women with whom he had been talking.

SOCIALISTS TO HONOR RUSSIAN REVOLUTION

Chicago, Nov. 4.—The Socialist national executive committee today announced that local branches had been asked to hold mass meetings November 7 in celebration of the fourth anniversary of the Russian revolution and on November 11 "to voice their opposition to war and to armaments."

SOFT COAL PRODUCTION OFF 110,000,000 TONS

Washington, Nov. 4.—With a coal strike threatened, the nation is many millions of tons behind in its production of bituminous coal. Figures disclosed today by the Geological Survey show that during the first 249 working days of this year 377,177,000 tons of soft coal were mined, which is 109,000,000 tons behind the production for that period for last year, 55,000,000 tons behind 1918 and about 126,000,000 tons behind the average of the war years. Compared with the average of all four years, it is 110,000,000 tons behind.

COUNCIL CHAMBER IS PAINTED FOR FOCH VISIT

A new coat of paint is being applied to the Council Chamber in City Hall so that it will look pretty when Marshal Foch comes here on November 14. The flagpole in front of City Hall also has received a new coat of white. The "oldest inhabitant" says he does not remember when the Council Chamber was painted last, but to the best of his recollection it was in 1902, when Prince Henry of Germany was the guest of the city.

FOUR VETERANS OBJECT TO TRANSFER

Legion Investigating Shifting of Such Men From Rutland to Parker Hill Hospital

Officials of the American Legion and other patriotic organizations are investigating the protests of four former service men, who have been tuberculor patients at contract hospitals in Rutland, and have been transferred by Dr. Cauley, of District No. 1, Veterans' Bureau, to the Parker Hill Hospital for treatment.

One of the cases is that of George A. Bryant, who has a wife and five children, and who had purchased a home in Rutland. According to Ralph Jones, a patient at the hospital in Rutland and one of a committee of three appointed to oppose the transfer, Bryan was so ill that he had been ordered to remain indoors by the Rutland doctors, but that Dr. Cauley refused to furnish transportation from the North Station to the Parker Hill institution.

The other transferred patients are Bruce Gould, Raymond A. Petrault and Francis P. Dineen.

According to Jones the majority of the patients desire to remain in the Rutland Hospital, having made many friends in Rutland and the surrounding country, and also because most of them are students at a vocational schools which has been opened there.

Worcester Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars officials are investigating the case and the State officials also are interesting themselves in the matter.

Knickers Oust Trousers at University of Chicago

Chicago, Nov. 4—Knickers are about to rout full length trousers at the University of Chicago.

"It looks like they will be the prevailing style here," said William Gubbins, president of the Inter-Fraternity Council. "Chicago students are more partial to lanky element of the male style the fads of the East."

The co-eds, it is said, have cast approving glances at the knee trousers, especially when worn by athletes. Most of the opposition is coming from the lanky element of the male students.

RAPS RICH AS PUBLIC SCHOOL ENEMIES

Professor Sharp of B. U. Says They Miss Meaning of Democracy

Professor Dallas Lore Sharp of Boston University, in an address before the Wisconsin Teachers' Association, bitterly arraigned those rich men and women who "have failed to grasp the true meaning of democracy and ignore the public schools for private schools" as being short-sighted and conceited.

"Speaking before a group of Harvard alumni at a recent dinner," said Professor Sharp, "I replied to a statement made by the toastmaster in introducing me who had said that now that Harvard has $5,000,000 that university could become the godmother of the nation's public school system by telling him and the others present that this could never be done because the Harvard faculty knows nothing of our public schools.

"Only one child of a Harvard professor attends a public school in Cambridge. The others go to private schools.

"In reply," continued Professor Sharp, "President Emeritus Charles W. Eliot of Harvard attacked my position, and declared that the public schools of today are worthless—that no good thing ever came out of them, but for our private schools, he said, there would be no real primary education in the United States.

"President Eliot added that it has always been Harvard's ideal to educate the leaders and then let the common crowd follow as best it could.

"Democracy means that you must accept and relish equality. The public school does or should teach the child to accept it.

"I have been a professor in a university for twenty-two years, and I say that you cannot teach anyone anything after they are sixteen years old. They send pupils to us in the colleges to let us give them a little better educational fit, but the real education is acquired before they come to college."

The Pendulum of the Clock Can Swing Just So Far—Then It Must Swing Back

Furniture prices have gone way down—they must go up. Great building booms are in progress throughout the United States. The need of additional housing facilities was never so desperate and the long expected boom for New England is close at hand. The demand for furniture will be unprecedented, and remember—DEMAND ALWAYS GOVERNS PRICES. If there are two houses for sale and three men want them the price of necessity goes up. The same applies to furniture. Summerfield's never cries "WOLF" in regard to prices, but the necessity at this time, we believe, has arisen. This week is the time to make your selection. BEAUTIFUL LEGS OF BUDAPEST SCORN PARIS

Women Refuse to Follow Style Edict and Will Keep Short Skirts

By Universal Service.

Budapest, Nov. 4. — The women of Budapest, famous as the city of the most beautiful legs and ankles in the world, are in rebellion against the new Paris modes. They are out to openly defy the Versailles-like edicts of the Parisian style dictators and are sticking to their abbreviated skirts.

The only concession that the Budapest beauties are making to Paris dictates is in somewhat longer evening gowns, but walking suits and other street dresses will continue to be made by Hungarian dressmakers short enough to reveal not only the marvelously turned ankles but the long and artistic curves of their slender legs.

"Hungarian women do not consider this display immodest," said a leading Budapest beauty. "We can only conclude that the percentage of beautiful legs and ankles is not large in Paris, or women would not obey the latest decree to hide them."

LAWRENCE TO HAVE RUSSIAN TAG DAY

Goshen, N. H., Nov. 4.—The life of a fifteen-year-old-girl is worth $1,000 in the opinion of the jury which awarded such a verdict to Mrs. Charlotte Smith against the automobilist whose machine killed her daughter, Ethel. The child was killed on Christmas eve.

SALVATION ARMY DRIVE REACHES $30,000 MARK

Dr. Edward T. Sullivan, Newton Centre Rector, Lauds Work of Organization

The first reports of chairmen in the Salvation Army Drive for $500,000 were made at the luncheon-meeting at the headquarters, No. 166 Devonshire street, and showed a total of nearly $30,000 subscribed so far, with less than half of the 106 chairmen reporting.

Director Bard aroused a good deal of enthusiasm by his reports from the fields he had. He said the chairmen were so busy with the work that many of them could not report at the meeting, but all expected to make reports at today's or tomorrow's meetings. He said the drive had a splendid start and that the whole community was with the Salvation Army.

Mr. Ward read a letter from Rev. Dr. Edward T. Sullivan of Trinity Church, Newton Centre, who, he explained, was one of the most prominent men in the Episcopal Diocese of Massachusetts, and in the latter Dr. Sullivan said:

"The Salvation Army is the Ambulance Corps of our organized Christian service. It responds to hurry calls in cases of moral casualty.

"It renders first aid to the morally injured in the No Man's Land of the city wilderness. Those who know what it is doing are convinced that no other organization could do just that work as well as the Salvation Army is doing it, much of it no other organization could do at all.

"To rescue human derelicts from the moral scrap heap of a great city; to seize the outcast on the brink of despair; to lift the fallen and restore the lost, and to bring to the loving heart of God those whom their penury tempteth to sin—that and much else is the blessed work the Salvation Army is doing. It is to be the Good Samaritan to all who fall by the wayside in the battle of life.

"Every man and woman wants to see this work done; and wants surely, to be represented in the doing of it. We can't be our own Good Samaritans in such cases."

GIRL IN 'FATTY' ARBUCKLE CASE IS MISSING

California Police Seek Alice Blake, One of the State's Main Witnesses

By Associated Press.

San Francisco, Nov. 4.—California police, through District Attorney Matthew Brady, [illegible] are requested to find Alice Blake, [illegible] of the main witnesses for the State in the manslaughter charge against Roscoe C. ("Fatty") Arbuckle, due to be brought to trial here November 14.

Miss Blake disappeared from a place near Calistoga, where she was staying with Mrs. John Duffy, mother of George Duffy, a Deputy District Attorney.

Miss Blake was a guest at the party given by Arbuckle in a local hotel when Virginia Rappe, film actress, is alleged to have sustained injuries which preceded her death.

FIGHT MANAGER HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

"Paddy" Minnehan Is Removed to Hospital in Woburn

"Paddy" Minnehan, a well-known Boston boxing promoter, was seriously injured early today when an automobile in which he and several other local sporting men were returning from a boxing match at Lowell was overturned on Winn street in Billerica.

The others suffered scratches and bruises, but were able to go home. Minnehan was taken to the Choate Memorial Hospital in Woburn, and was somewhat more comfortable later today.

The machine in which Minnehan was riding was driven by Frederick Bullock of No. 37 Hancock street, and was upset when it skidded on the wet roadway.

Johnny Sheppard of Woburn, one of the boxers managed by Minnehan, was following in another automobile, and took the injured man to the Choate Hospital.

Minnehan managed Jimmy Gardner when that boxer was at his best and has been manager and business [illegible] for many other gladiators of the squared circle, besides promoting [illegible] bouts.

40,000 Tulip Bulbs Being Planted in Public Garden

Forty thousand tulip bulbs are being planted in the Public Garden by employes of the Park Department. Commissioner James B. Shea of the Park Department said that the bulbs are the first imported by the city from Holland since the war, and they cost $5,000. They will bloom next Spring.

FEARING BEAUTY GONE, TAKES POISON

Girl Now Facing Lingering Death From Bichloride of Mercury

Frightened because she thought a harmless eruption on her face would ruin her beauty, Miss Doris Healy, a 22-year-old waitress living with her mother at No. 44 Warrenton street, swallowed two tablets of bichloride of mercury in the room of her sister, Hattie Healy, No. 33 Hollis street.

Her sister called first aid and the girl was taken to City Hospital, where it was said she would in all probability die the long-drawn-out, painful death that always follows mercuric poisoning.

Miss Healy, young, buoyant and charming, had been troubled of late by a rather unsightly but perfectly harmless skin disease, police say, that had manifested itself in the form of a rash on her face and throat. She was troubled. She had visions of going through life with a pitted, unsightly countenance. She worried, and slowly reached the depths of despair.

And so, while her sister was busy in another room, the girl walked into the bathroom, took down the bottle from a shelf and swallowed the tablets.

First aid was rendered promptly. A nearby doctor was called, and after his ministrations Miss Healy was taken to the hospital. As in nearly every case, however, the treatment was unavailing. Her name was placed on the danger list.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Women to Run Stock Exchange at Copley-Plaza

Miss Isabella Mumford of Chestnut Hill, who is to be one of the head waitresses at the Copley-Plaza on November 16 when the entire hotel will be run by women. Miss Mumford is a member of the Junior League.

By BETTY ALDEN.

A miniature stock exchange is to be a unique feature of Woman's Day at the Copley-Plaza on November 16. The exchange will be ready to do real business; there will be women experts drawn from the large banking-houses in Boston to give advice on buying, while prominent society girls who have volunteered their services as "board girls" will write stock quotations puzzling to the layman upon the board with ease and accuracy.

Through the courtesy of Richardson, Hill Company the branch office of this firm at the Copley-Plaza will be turned over November 16 to a committee of women headed by Mrs. Charles Clark of No. 285 Beacon street, and patrons of the Richardson Hill banking house may be assured of expert advice if they wish to trade there on Woman's Day.

Mrs. Clark, who, by the way, is the mother of "Tubby" Clark, Harvard football star, has charge also of distributing the natty posters announcing Woman's Day. These placards, which have just been put on display, are of red card-board, with the silhouette of a pert-looking "bell-girl" against a silver background. Miss Katherine Lappin Connor, designer of the poster and an artist of some repute, has surrounded the poster-bell-girl with a goodly number of bags, and it is no exaggeration to say that the young society girls who have volunteered to answer to the call of "Front!" on November 16 will "have their hands full" if there are many out-of-town guests patronizing the hotel on that day. However, one may feel assured that the voice of the clerk at the desk will not be raised in vain to call "Front!" for the capable Miss Harriett Robeson of Commonwealth avenue is captain of the society bell-hops. Miss Robeson did most efficiently her part in the rummage sale held last week at Horticultural Hall for the benefit of the Boston School of Occupational Therapy.

Miss Isabella Mumford of Chestnut Hill, who will be one of the head waitresses in the main dining room of the Copley-Plaza on this much heralded day, will have as some of the fair tray-wielders in her charge, the Misses Olive and Susan D. Lee of Chestnut Hill, Dorothy Neyhart of Framingham, Peggy Porter of Beacon street, Helen Scott of Wellesley, Sylvia Warren of Beacon street, Mrs. William A. Parker (Elsie Ames) of Marlboro street, Katherine Winslow of Chestnut Hill, Beatrice Jones of Beacon street and Frances Hood of Chestnut Hill. The Misses Louise and Rose Fessenden, daughters of Sewall H. Fessenden of Chestnut Hill, are the two other head waitresses.

Everyone in New York or thereabouts who is at all interested in art—and a great many who are not—are flocking to the studio of Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney at No. 8 West Eighth street, where the noted society sculptress is exhibiting the collection of contemporaneous American paintings which she took overseas and exhibited in Venice, London and Paris some months ago.

It has been made clear that the group of paintings selected by Mrs. Whitney as the best work among artists of this country is in no way official. But there are not many critics, however exacting and fastidious, who could desire a more capable judge of art than the mistress of the studio on West Eighth street, who is likewise mistress of the Whitney mansion on Fifth avenue.

Years of hard work and the spark of genius have won for the former Gertrude Vanderbilt, daughter of the late Cornelius Vanderbilt, an exalted reputation as a sculptress; her works occupy only the most prominent of places, and critics, here and abroad, wherever they are exhibited, have stamped them not only with approval, but enthusiasm. There has been no Vanderbilt-Whitney "pull" about it; if anything, critics would the more readily condemn Mrs. Whitney's work because of her social position if they considered it all amateurish. She has achieved her fame as a sculptress in spite of her position and not because of it.

Perhaps the most remarkable thing about Mrs. Whitney is the fact that although she has made sculpturing her lifework, she has led a life more interesting than that of any fiction heroine could possibly be. One chapter of the book of her life might read, "Installing at Juilly in France, an emergency hospital a few miles behind the firing-line at the outbreak of the late war." Another, "The famous Prince Paul Troubetzkoy makes a bronze statuette of Mrs. Whitney, which is recognized as one of his best works." Mrs. Whitney's sculptured El Dorado Fountain gains a position of honor among the decorative features at the Panama-Pacific Exposition," and so on down the list, until perhaps one of the latest chapters might read, "Launching a debutante upon the social sea," for Mrs. Whitneys daughter, Barbara Whitney, is to make her debut this year.

Random Notes of Prominent Folk in Town and Country

MRS. GEORGE CABOT LODGE of Boston and Washington was among the guests at the dinner given by Secretary of State and Mrs. Hughes in honor of Mr. Hughes' fellow delegates at the Armament Conference, Senator Lodge, Senator Underwood and Elihu Root. The affair took place on Wednesday evening at the ughes home on Eighteenth street.

An important social event scheduled for a week from tomorrow is the wedding of Miss Mary Hartwell of Chestnut Hill and Reed Pierce Anthony of New York. The ceremony will take place at noon in the Church of the Redeemer at Chestnut Hill. Miss Hartwell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Townsend Hartwell.

MARY PICKFORD IN NEW FILM AT SELWYN

"Little Lord Fauntleroy" Opens Next Week, While "Doug" Goes to the Globe

Husband Douglas has had his innings at the Selwyn Theatre, and now wife Mary will take her turn.

Fairbanks moves over to the Globe with "The Three Musketeers" on Monday, while the latest Pickford release, "Little Lord Fauntleroy," will take the stage.

"Little Lord Fauntleroy" is a filmation of the celebrated romance by Frances Hodgson Burnett, which was the delight of the youngsters of a generation ago as a story, and which charmed the kids of ten years ago as a drama.

Now, in picture form, with the most popular of all screen stars in the title role, it will please still another generation.

WIFE DROPS SUIT FOR $10,000 ALIMONY

New York, Nov. 4.—Abigail Hancock Bishop has dropped her suit to compel her husband, James Cunningham Bishop, to pay her $10,000 a year alimony. Bishop settled with her out of court, it is reported. Mrs. Bishop's contention was that her husband could pay her the alimony, if he wanted, from a trust fund established in his favor by his father, Hebar Reginald Bishop.

MOTION PICTURE NEWS AND GOSSIP

Hollywood "All Het Up" Over Rumors That "Mirrors of Filmdom" Is to Be Published

By FRIEDA DAVIS

FRANKNESS in writing seems to be the order of the day in the literary world. Margot Asquith published her diary in which she gave personal opinions and the less known side of well known persons. After that came "The Mirrors of Downing Street" and "The Mirrors of Washington," and last but by no means least, Clare Sheridan's diary of her trip through Soviet Russia, "Mayfair to Moscow," as well as her new American diary.

The Hollywood movie circles are having something to think about these days over the rumor —and it savors of something more than mere conjecture—that a "Mirrors of Filmdom" is about to be published.

Just as the authors of the two other "mirrors" are unknown, so is the author of the film publication. It is said that the writer is a person who has interviewed practically all the stars, directors and producers, and has interviewed many of them more than once. He plans to be merciless toward those who deserve no mercy and to tell "the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth" in every instance. He plans to rap particularly hard those who have not been able to keep a normal outlook on life after their bank accounts reach the multiple figure.

Hollywood is apprehensive!

TWO 'LITTLE MINISTERS' COMING

WHEN two companies have the photoplay rights to a play and neither is willing to give up the story to the other what happens? Famous Players-Lasky is filming Barrie's "Little Minister" with Betty Compson in the role of Lady Babbie, while Vitagraph is forging ahead on the screening of the same play with Alice Calhoun in the leading part.

BETTY COMPSON

It will be interesting to watch the two films when they are released. With all due respect to Vitagraph, we feel that Famous Players-Lasky can be counted on to come out ahead, possibly only slightly and possibly to a great extent.

The latter corporation has unlimited funds to work with and has unquestionably the best workmen to put on the film. Remember Robertson's filming of "Sensational Tommy"? Miss Calhoun has much in her favor, for she plays with simplicity and naturalness, while Miss Compson's unusual beauty and quaint mannerisms will stand her in good stead.

Mabel Normand, Impresario.

NOW that Mabel Norman has finished the filming of the Mack Sennett special picture, "Molly O," she is laying plans for more activities. At present time she feels that it is time she did something serious and wants to start a small theatre in New York, a pantomime theatre.

MABEL NORMAND

She is preparing for a trip abroad to visit the pantomime theatres American rights to foreign plays.

This doesn't mean that Miss Normand is to leave the screen. She is signed up with the Sennett forces for some time, but will have her theatre as between pictures work.

BEBE DANIELS MOVES.

BEBE DANIELS gave a housewarming in her new Beverly Hills home, which she bought some weeks ago. The occasion was a dinner given in honor of Nina Wilcox Putnam, the author who has just finished several stories for this Realart star.

Miss Daniels moved into her new home last week with her mother, her Spanish grandmother and several aunts. It is one of the show places of the colony, which is some miles from the city of Hollywood.

BUTT TO BE STARRED.

PLANS are under way to star W. Lawson Butt, the English actor, who has been seen in so many of the big films. Butt has always done such remarkably satisfying work that it is surprising he has not been given bigger opportunities before this.

He appeared as the husband's friend in the Goldwyn production, "Earthbound," and as the "other man" in Pauline Frederick's "Five Sting of the Lash," among other things.

HALL CAINE COMING.

HALL CAINE is the latest of the English writers to journey to this country to see "what all the shootin's for" about the filming of his story.

Caine will go out to the Goldwyn studios in Culver City to pass on the screen version of the scenario of his "The Christian" before the scenes are "shot." He will be here within a few weeks.

MRS. BIRD LEAVES CELL IN BROCKTON

Brockton, Nov. 4. — Released from her cell where she has been confined under $10,000 bonds, Mrs. Frances Bird, pretty wife of Clifton E. Bird, charged with shooting with intent to murder Arthur C. Bates of this city, rejoined her husband and two little ones, Judge William C. Rowe having lowered the bail to $2,000. The removal of the name of Bates from the danger list at the Brockton Hospital prompted the court action. Bail was immediately furnished by Assistant L. C. Hendershot, commander of the local Salvation Army Corps and Miss Maude L. Bird. The matter was then continued to November 20 for hearing.

TAXI DRIVER WRECKS CAR TO AVOID 3 CHILDREN

A taxicab, driven and operated by Irving Sampson of No. 5 Fernlake street, Dorchester, was wrecked on the Castle street bridge when Sampson turned aside to avoid striking three children. Sampson was uninjured. Bystanders cheered him for his quickness in saving the lives of the youngsters.

The children were Charles Porter, six years old, of No. 8 Genesee street; Mary Siegal, six years old, of No. 8 Genesee street, and Rebecca Swig, six years old, of No. 342 Harrison avenue. The boy fell in front of the car, the wheels of which came within six inches of his body.

DEMOCRACY ADVOCATED BY DARTMOUTH PAPER

A "Speak to Every One," campaign among the students of Dartmouth College has been started there by the students' newspaper. It is pointed out that the old and time-honored custom of the college for every student to speak to any other student whether they are known or not, is in danger of lapsing, and the paper urges that the students revive it at once.

FILENE HOPES TO BRING BIG EXPOSITION HERE

The exposition of America's Making, now being shown in New York, will come to Boston, if the plans of Edward A. Filene are successful. The latter is organizing a committee which will go to New York to view the exposition and arrange for its transfer. The exposition opened in New York last Saturday.

BRIAND SEEN AS MOST ADROIT POLITICIAN

French Premier Will Have Much to Say at Arms Conference, Hapgood Thinks

By NORMAN HAPGOOD.

(Staff Correspondent of the Boston American.)

Washington, Nov. 4. — When Aristide Briand, Premier of France, passes the Statue of Liberty, a day or two from now, there will be entering this country the man who, next to Lloyd George, is supposed to be the most adroit politician in Europe.

This adroitness at the present moment is an asset to France and to the world. Briand's nominal stand is not to be taken at a hundred per cent. of its face value.

In order to keep power at a time when the French are hysterical about Germany, Briand has to make a fierce enough noise to keep the Poincaire jingoes from throwing him out of office.

To cool and observant Americans some of the things that Briand says will inevitably seem foolish and also dangerous. These things should be interpreted in view of the state of fear of Briand being succeeded, if he French opinion.

There is not a chance in eight bills overthrown, by anybody more liberal than he. If he falls he will be succeeded by those who represent reliance on force. The military mind will then be in full control.

To fight the strong-arm people, the way-psychology people, a leader has to be very shrewd. If we examine the only man in Europe who is even shrewder than Briand, the Prime Minister of Great Britain, we see this same principle at work.

SAME PRINCIPLE AT WORK.

In my opinion, Lloyd-George means in the last analysis, to support Sinn Fein against Ulster, provided Ulster does not give up her claim to populations not in sympathy with the controlling Belfast point of view. But he cannot do this until he has jockeyed the situation around so that it becomes manageable.

If we find Lloyd-George in the end leading liberal opinion against Birkenhead, Churchill, Carson irreconcilables, it will be because he has gained time to educate British opinion, to get Sinn Fein to give up the one point that he cannot grant, and to give Ulster enough rope to show that she is the one standing in the way of a rational settlement.

WAR MOOD SILLY.

The same type of opportunism, if you like the word, is the characteristic of Briand's policy. He knows perfectly well that France is silly to keep up the war mood. He knows that to use the armistice terms as mere tricks to keep an offensive hold on Germany is the most suicidal thing France can do.

Nobody better than he knows that to keep up the kind of force-thinking that brought on the world-war is the way to destroy Europe, and notably the way to bring France herself to ruin. But if he had said these things straight out, he would not have been at the head of the French government today.

His enemies fully realize the facts that I have been laying down. They persistently point out that he used to be a Socialist; that his staunchest supporters today are the Radicals. In the usual imbecile slang of the world today they accuse him of being in substance a Red.

No doubt Briand will make us tired rehearsing the wrongs suffered by France, but he will not do it with the rhetorical emptiness to which Monsieur Viviani treated us a few months ago. He will do it for French opinion, not for ours.

TO SAVE HIMSELF.

He will do it to keep the Poincare forces from throwing him out, and he will be hoping all the time for a swing of French opinion in a more constructive direction.

Briand realizes that France would have been ruined if she had secured the Rhine frontier, even if for effect he may talk about the sacrifice of giving up that frontier.

He may talk about the danger of an uprising in Germany, but he will know all the time that the German army is not only one-eighth the size of the French, but is lacking in aeroplanes, big guns, reserves, a general staff, and faced on the other side by France's ally, by a secret treaty, Poland, herself with a well-equipped and well-trained army six times the size of Germany's.

Like Lloyd George, Briand is the best type of statesman to be hoped for in these days of reaction, war and demoralization. He is the type that can outwit the militarists, by going far enough to give them no issue and at the same time play the game of the Liberals just to the extent that circumstances and prevailing opinion make possible.

Lawrence Has First Woman Candidate for Mayor

Lawrence, Nov. 4.—The first woman candidate for the office of Mayor of Lawrence is Miss Evelyn Smith of No. 7 Jackson court, a social worker. Miss Smith, who is very well known in various sections of the city, filed her papers at the office of City Clerk Edward J. Wade.

Miss Smith has been actively engaged in various forms of social work, especially in connection with the establishment of a system of city stores. She was formerly secretary to the Rev. Lathrop Meaker of New York, who during his residence in this city several years ago sought the office of Mayor.

Miss Smith has not announced her platform, but promises some interesting speeches to the voters, especially the women.

FUGITIVE VICE RING WITNESS IS CAUGHT

Rose St. Peter Arrested on Her Return to Fall River From Canada

Fall River, Nov. 4—Rose St. Peter, of Quequechan street, who left the city suddenly while a star witness for the government against the members of a jitney vice ring a few weeks ago, was arrested upon her return from Canada. At the time of the disappearance of the young woman the government was obliged to not press a number of cases against a number of jitney men. Following her arrest she was locked up at the Central Police Station and Chief Martin Feeney gave orders that no one see her without his permission.

A few weeks ago the police started a campaign against the local jitney men, and as the result sixteen men were arrested on charges of soliciting and other offenses.

The police are looking for a girl named Irene Ford, who also left the city at the time of the trials. It was learned that she visited the city a few days ago and, in company with her husband, attended the performance at a local theatre. The police believe she left for New York the following day.

DEPORT RUSSIAN WOMAN FOR DRAFT LAW OFFENCE

New York, Nov. 4.—Mollie Steimer, convicted here in May, 1920, of interference with the draft law, is expected to arrive here from the Federal penitentiary in Jefferson City, Missouri, for deportation to Russia. Although she has insisted for months that she cannot be deported, she did not object to leaving the prison with immigration officials. She had been sentenced to serve fifteen years and pay a fine of $500.

Is your appetite uncertain—your digestion impaired?

Why the food we eat may fail to keep us fit

ONE single food element essential to health! We now know that many of our inefficiencies and failures are really due to lack of a health-maintaining element in food—the water-soluble vitamine. Scientists are agreed that without this one food factor we lose appetite and weight and fall off in health.

This is why thousands of men and women who are eating otherwise good and wholesome meals find their energy and vigor slipping. And this is also why many have little appetite and remain in a state of lowered vitality.

Today Fleischmann's Yeast is recommended as a corrective food for overcoming these difficulties, for Fleischmann's Yeast has been discovered to be a rich source of the essential vitamine we need throughout life.

Fleischmann's Yeast is a wholesome, fresh food, assimilated like any other food. Eat it at any time, 2 to 3 cakes a day. You will like its fresh, distinctive flavor and the clean taste it leaves in your mouth.

Have it on the table at home and try it as a sandwich filler or spread on crackers. Have it at your office and eat it at your desk. It is good in milk, and many like it just plain. If troubled with gas dissolve it first in very hot water. This does not affect the efficacy of the yeast. Place a standing order with your grocer for Fleischmann's Yeast and get it fresh daily.

Send 4c in stamps for the booklet, "The New Importance of Yeast in Diet." So many inquiries are coming in daily for this booklet that it is necessary to make this nominal charge to cover cost of handling and mailing. Address THE FLEISCHMANN COMPANY, 701 Washington Street, New York, N. Y.

The need for scientifically tested yeast

Fresh yeast has been proved by recent scientific tests to be a valuable food for correcting run-down condition, constipation, indigestion and certain skin disorders. These original tests were all made with Fleischmann's Yeast. Beware of untested yeast-vitamine preparations that contain drugs or other mixtures. Fleischmann's Yeast (fresh) is a pure food, rich in vitamine, in which it measures up to the high standards set by laboratories and hospitals. The familiar tin-foil package with the yellow label is the only form in which Fleischmann's Yeast for Health is sold.

"DANDERINE"

Grows Thick, Heavy Hair

35-cent Bottle Ends all Dandruff, Stops Hair Coming Out

Ten minutes after using Danderine you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes, but really new hair—growing all over the scalp. Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them, helping the hair to grow long, strong and luxuriant. One application of Danderine makes thin, lifeless, colorless hair look youthfully bright, lustrous, and just twice as abundant.

POLITICAL RING ASSAILED BY O'CONNOR

City Hall "Trust" Fighting With Backs Toward Wall, He Tells Voters

Charles R. O'Connor assailed the Boston political trust, and declared "public sentiment is awake to the rottenness of conditions in this city" at a mayoralty rally held in Central Hall, East Boston.

"Tonight marks the end of the political trust in Boston," said O'Connor. "The politicians that have dominated this city and controlled the election of Mayor of Boston for twenty years are fighting with their backs against the wall to-day. I admit, but they can't win again. The people of Boston are awake to the rottenness of the city.

"When you find your home assessed for five times its value, when you find that big busy owners are paying rates far below what you are paying, you can see where the pinch for economy must come from.

"Long over the rest of the country sections of the other cities the owners who are supposed to live and do business here find ways and means of making a living and don't find them working very hard except around election time.

"I am a candidate because I want to be Mayor so I can serve a new people and not a political machine. I want to be elected with their support and when I am sworn in I am not the

No business interests can have their property taxes raised by the O'Connor administration, but big corporations will never get a square deal of the city's money.

FIGHT FOR CHILDREN IN SUIT FOR DVOIRCE

Jason Harold Braman in a libel for divorce against Hattie Moore Braman, filed in the Superior Court, charges desertion.

The libelee, said a decree of divorce, Mrs. Braman is alleged to have been unfaithful to her husband with men whose names the libelant does not know. The couple were married at Cornish, N. H., on September 4, 1905, and have lived at Hyde Park. Braman asks for the custody of their one child, Hazel Braman, now 15 years old.

Artist Has New Ideas in Book Game

One of the ways in which the artist has given a "new twist" to the drawings for the Boston American's $5,000 Book Title Test, is by presenting his pictures almost bare of reading matter. Only three of the first fifty pictures will carry any text whatever. These three bear but a single word apiece.

The title of each picture—in all but these three—will be suggested by the picture itself and not by any words within the picture. This is a decided innovation, and the Boston American feels certain one which will meet with general approval.

Picture No 1 in the Book Title Test will be printed in Monday's Boston American, and the one reason for the conspicuous position of these first lines is to remind you of the advisability of ordering the paper in advance. For we doubt not will culminate our opinion that at an early hour on Monday it will be "All sold out at Boston American offices."

Many readers have come to like Mr Artes's pictures better than any other entertainment you can have before them. Mr Artes's pictures are good mental exercise. They give you something to look about.

And the awards are not unattractive: First, $1,000; second, $750; third, $500; fourth, $300; fifth, $200; sixth, $200; seventh, $150; eighth, $100; ninth, $50. One hundred awards of $10 and one hundred and ten awards of $5 each.

MOTHER—HAS YOUR CHILD THESE SYMPTOMS?

Mothers, watch children for symptoms of internal disorders. Look at your child NOW! Is his breath offensive and tongue coated? Does he grind his teeth or start in his sleep? Does he pick or scratch his nose? Is his appetite changeable? Has he occasional grinding pains? Is he constipated?

These are some symptoms of worms. Great distress often results from these parasites. To save these quickly with Dr. True's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller—purely vegetable—first prescribed by an old-fashioned Maine country doctor 75 years ago.

Dr. True's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, purifies the bowels as it clears them. A favorite of careful mothers for four generations. Corrects constipation in young and old. Get the Family size, $1.25; also in 60c and 40c bottles.

RUSSIA DEFIES DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE

Holds Herself Free to Take Steps to Prevent Enforcement of Decisions

Moscow, Nov. 4.—[By the Associated Press].—Foreign Minister Chicherin sent a note to the entente nations and the United States today, saying that Russia would not feel herself bound by the decisions of the Washington conference, and held herself free to take any steps necessary to prevent their enforcement.

London, Nov. 4—[By the Associated Press]. The House of Commons this afternoon adopted the motion recommending the approaching Washington conference [illegible] of Premier Lloyd George.

The vote came after two and a half hours of discussion in which numerous speakers from all the parties took part and voiced the conference aims.

JOYCE SLEUTHS TRAILED PEGGY IN GAY PARIS

Alleged Indiscreetness of Actress Said to Have Spoiled Chance for Big Alimony

By Universal Service.

Chicago, Nov. 4—Peggy Hopkins Joyce may not dangle her pretty anklet after all from Judge Joseph Sabath's tresses should Tuesday when the divorce petition of her third husband, J. Stanley Joyce is heard.

The reported compromise, it was learned, will make the hearing rather perfunctory.

Peggy will be represented by her attorneys and her appearance in court is not expected.

According to the reported settlement Joyce will obtain an annulment of the marriage but will not get back the $1,000,000 in jewels that he lavished on the actress during the three months they lived together.

And Peggy it is said will not press her claims for the record breaking $10,000 a month alimony she has been demanding.

Peggy's desire for peace it is understood, paved the way for the settlement. Her alleged indiscreetness in Paris this Summer enabled Joyce's sleuths to get new evidence that spoiled her chances of winning alimony demands.

Joyce seized upon this to bring about a quiet settlement so he could avoid further publicity.

TO RELIEVE CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or are hard of hearing or have head noises, go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ½ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take one tablespoon four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.—Advt.

SIR THOMAS LIPTON DOES IT THIS WAY

Last year, a big problem was put up to Sir Thomas Lipton, founder of the great business having the largest sale of tea in the world.

A reduction in tea prices was necessary. Should he reduce the quality in keeping with the lowered price? Sir Thomas Lipton's decision was immediate and unchangeable.

He would cut the price—but the quality, NEVER!

Gold Label quality was adopted as standard for Lipton's well-known Yellow Label Brand, and in addition the price was reduced.

That's why Lipton's Yellow Label Brand of tea is not only the finest tea but also the finest value in the world today.

Ask your grocer for Lipton's Yellow Label Tea. If he does not sell it, send us his name and address and we will mail you a FREE sample and give you the name of a grocer who can supply you.

Klavicle

The World's Most Distinctive Overcoat

This coat has created the greatest stir and most favorable comment of any garment that ever graced the back of man. It is the pride of every owner, the envy of the non-owner and the despair of those makers who have attempted to imitate it.

There's a little trick in cutting and a knack in making this coat which are understood and successfully practiced only by the originators---The House of Kuppenheimer.

Unique, distinctive, luxurious, the Klavicle is indescribably attractive in this season's exceptionally handsome fabrics. Being made exclusively by Kuppenheimer, it is sold exclusively by us.

CORONER DISPOSES OF HANNA DEATH RUMORS

Cooper, N. Y., Nov 4—Rumors that spread broadcast after the sudden early death yesterday of Dan R Hanna, son of the late Senator Marcus A. Hanna and multimillionaire coal, iron ore and newspaper capitalist, were set at rest today when Coroner Robert Johns announced that death was due to "aortic insufficiency and acute nephritis." Coroner Johns told Mrs. Medill McCormick Hanna's sister, that he had called at the home "to settle all this idle talk about there being a mystery in connection with Mr. Hanna's death."

Stomach Upset, Gas, Gas, Gas —"Diapepsin"

"Pape's Diapepsin" ends indigestion heartburn in five minutes. Sour, gassy upset stomach, acidity, dyspepsia, when the food you eat ferments into gases and stubborn lumps; your head aches and you feel sick and miserable, that's when you realize the quick magic of Pape's Diapepsin. If your stomach is in a continuous revolt—if you can't get it regulated—try Pape's Diapepsin. It's no use to have a bad stomach! Make your next meal a favorite food meal, then take a little Diapepsin. There will be no sour risings—no belching, no heartburn, no dyspepsia, no stomach misery, no indigestion. Pape's Diapepsin tastes like delicious candy, but it's the quickest, surest stomach relief in the world, and it's harmless. Don't let your stomach make you miserable another day. Get a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any druggist and then you will know exactly what to do when your stomach goes back on you. It is the most efficient stomach aid known. It is absolutely harmless, and belongs in every home.—Advertisement.

NEAR PANIC IN THEATRE WHEN FILM BLAZES

Hundreds Rush for Exits in Quincy Movie House, but Are Quickly Quieted

Several hundred patrons of the Quincy Theatre in Quincy rushed for the exits when the theatre was filled with smoke as a result of film in the operating booth catching fire.

The blaze was speedily extinguished, and the spectators filed back to see the completion of the program. Prompt work on the part of Manager Hardydt, who rushed from the foyer of the theatre to the stage and allayed the fears of most of those starting for the exits probably averted a panic.

Hair Often Ruined By Careless Washing

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls of Mulsified will lather the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any pharmacy. It's very cheap, and a few ounces will last every member of the family for months. Ask your druggist for Mulsified. Advertisement.

CARDINAL GIVES $25 TO XMAS BASKET FUND

Prelate Endorses Work of Boston American In Effort to Aid the Needy

Cardinal O'Connell, one of the principal [illegible] of the [illegible] ton American's eighth annual Christmas Basket Fund.

Not only has Boston's Cardinal endorsed the American's worthy effort in behalf of [illegible] but [illegible] into the hands of homes at Christmas, but he has also contributed his personal check for $25, to the fund.

STIMULUS TO OTHERS.

The Christian Good Editor believes that if such a man as Cardinal O'Connell is satisfied with the practical results obtained through the medium of the fund, others should be stimulated to contribute by his example.

In his letter of commendation Cardinal O'Connell calls particular attention to the need of enlarged endowment this year because of conditions due to widespread unemployment. "I am confident," he said, "that those to whom God has given generously will strive to assist their less fortunate brethren during the blessed season that commemorates God's charity to men."

A similar note, stating the need of enlarged service this year to the impoverished people of Boston and vicinity was struck by President Calvin Coolidge, Governor Channing H. Cox and Mayor Andrew J. Peters in their recent [illegible] proclamations [illegible] Christmas Fund.

[illegible] the work of the Fund [illegible] of State and [illegible] point the way to [illegible] to be perfect a good deed. What could bring more happiness than the feeding of hungry children on Christmas?

CHILD SENDS DONATION.

The first child to donate to the fund this season was George Guy Bailey, Jr., of No. 2 East street, Ipswich, Mass., who wrote: "Inclosed please find $3.50 for the Basket Fund, which I have saved during the year in nickels and cents. I wish that I might send much more as I consider it a very worthy cause."

George has the right spirit. If every reader of the American does as much as he has done, the fund is sure to cover the map with a hand. It is the spirit shown by this Ipswich boy that makes it possible for thousands of other boys and girls to have a good dinner in their homes every Christmas. We trust that others will follow the example which he has set.

Last year scores of children aided the fund in many ways. We believe many will do so again this year.

CONTRACT FOR FOOD.

The contract for the Christmas parcels of food has already been awarded to E. E. Gray Co., one of the largest and oldest grocery houses in Boston. This firm submitted the lowest bid. Specifications were sent out to thirty-five of the leading grocery and provision houses of this city. This gives prospective donors an idea of how carefully the money contributed is spent. Equal care to see that the food goes to really needy families will be taken.

A charity ball and entertainment will be conducted in the Copley-Plaza Hotel ball room, Monday evening, December 19, in aid of the Fund, under the auspices of Amelia Burnham Studio of Dancing, No. 240 Huntington avenue, Boston. This is the second year that Miss Burnham has arranged a big ball for the benefit of the Fund. Last year the ball which she conducted netted more than $600 with which to purchase Christmas dinners for the needy. The 1,200 or more persons who attended that event will remember the good time they had, and most of them are planning to attend next month's party.

DANCING TO FOLLOW.

The entertainment will be given from 8 to 10 o'clock and general dancing will then follow until 1 a. m. to the music of a large orchestra. Plans are under way for many features in connection with the entertainment. Last year a pantomime, including a Christmas fantasy description of the good work done for the Christmas Fund, was given. A woman appeared in the pantomime as "The Modern American Good Samaritan." She was attired in a stirring gown covered with pages from the Boston American, and during the course of the fantasy presented a basket of food to a needy child. Something [illegible] in a general way, will be [illegible] this year.

In addition, an attractive program of [illegible] and group dancing and singing [illegible] arranged. It is believed that [illegible] more children will take part in the various numbers, including several of Miss Burnham's cleverest pupils.

Because of the fact that the entire net proceeds of the ball are to be devoted to feeding the needy at Christmas, all of Miss Burnham's pupils are working enthusiastically to make the party a success. Prizes are to be offered to the children giving the best [illegible].

At the conclusion of the ball last year Miss Burnham was highly commended by many people upon the efficiency of the event.

London, Nov 4—Announcement of the engagement of Viscount Grey of Falloden, former Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, and Lady Glenconner will be made soon, it was declared by the Daily Sketch this morning.

Lady Glenconner is a sister-in-law of Mrs. H. H. Asquith. Her husband, who died last November, was an intimate friend of Viscount Grey.

ATTACKS PRICES CHARGED BY SHOE MEN

Steel President Campbell Says Hoover Gave Him Facts on "Profiteering"

Charges that the New England shoe trade is selling its products at a figure which is 25% per cent. over the previous price while the cost of leather as to the manufacturer is but 50 per cent. of the price paid before the war were made by James A. Campbell, president of a Youngstown, O., steel company, in an address at the Copley Plaza before the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers.

Campbell, who asserted he made his charges on facts furnished him by Secretary Hoover added: "This looks very much like profiteering."

Public-spirited men, continued Campbell, should put the spot-light on the shoe situation and find out why the prices remain so high while leather has become so cheap.

He ranged the standard of wages paid in the cotton industry declaring that the wages were higher than the cost of living warranted.

The [illegible] prosperity of [illegible] cotton manufacturers [illegible] and [illegible] normal conditions are brought about that will give greater prosperity to the farmers, who comprise about 40 per cent. of the purchasers of the mills and factories.

Fresh From Paris
Latest Word From Marie Suzanne

Paris, France

PARIS suggests the costume above at the left as ideal for early Winter sporting events in town or country. The tailleur is of black broadcloth, having its severe little coat fastened with one button and boasting slit pockets at each side. The one piece skirt is sufficiently short to be practical. Over this is worn a perfectly plain cape-wrap of tan velvet, reaching to the hem of the skirt. Also the up to date Parisian sporting girl, a slender walking stick is more than apt to be her constant companion.

Plain tooled velvet, combined with plaid contrastingly striped, is used in a second outfit for sports wear. The double breasted jacket is of beige velvet, featuring the new cape back which appears in many of the Winter coats. Black velvet, striped with beige, is used for the short, one-piece skirt.

HOLDUP VICTIM IN PROVIDENCE IS DEAD

Police Seek Assailant of Aged Storekeeper Found Dying After Robbery

Providence, Nov. 4 — Nazaig Mesrobian, aged 65, two year-old storekeeper at No. [illegible] Berry street, was found dead on the floor of his store at No. [illegible] Fountain street Wednesday night. He died at the Rhode Island Hospital from a fractured skull. [illegible] relatives the man was the victim of a holdup. A short heavy stick, which was broken in two, was found near the store and it is thought the holdup man struck him with it when he was [illegible] robbery.

One of the storekeepers' trousers pockets was ripped open, apparently in an attempt to extract money from it.

When found the aged man had only $3 on his possession and only $1.63 was in the cash register. The police say, in their opinion, the man had not robbed as it is likely a storekeeper would have more money than was found in his clothing and in the store.

So far as has been learned, no one witnessed the robbery or saw any one regarded as suspicious in or about the store. The storekeeper's pocket was discovered with a pattern sent to the store to purchase a cigar.

A New Invention
Revolutionizes the Neckwear Industry!

WEARPLUS Neckties are made to wear, to last longer, to keep their freshness, practically free from wrinkles, because the objectionable flannel lining or padding has been LEFT OUT.

It is a great idea, and we have thought it out at last!

If you will walk into any men's-wear store and ask for a WEARPLUS TIE, this is what you will get---

The Tie Without Lining Padding or Wadding

It is a smooth tie, you will say, and there's the secret of the big idea, the neat, flat, smooth effect. For this new idea in neckwear permits of no lining, and it's stitched flat and firm, so that the material remains smooth, even and practically free from wrinkles. Because there's no lining the tie cannot bunch.

WEARPLUS ties are made from selected materials, sold at an economical price. Untie as easily as they tie, lie smooth and flat.

Draw one through your fingers, feel its smoothness, and then realize why neckties wrinkle, roll and become bunchy when stuffed or lined. Not so with WEARPLUS ties — they are different, because of the way they are made.

Ties of equal quality and style were never sold in pre-war times as cheaply as this, and remember that the insured extra wear costs you no more.

The making of WEARPLUS ties is a new and radical idea, and patents are pending protecting the manufacturer.

When you purchase, look for the trade-mark — it is on every genuine Wearplus Tie.

If you have any difficulty in procuring the WEARPLUS tie from your local dealer, kindly let us know and we will tell you where to get them.

MARTIN AFTER KNOCKOUT IN KRAMER GO

All-Star Card of Bouts for Fans at Fenway Show Tonight

By Jack Conway

Terry Martin, a youth who [illegible] of battering opponents [illegible] a victory over Danny Kramer, [illegible] Philadelphia, in the feature bout of the [illegible] at the Fenway A. A. all-star show at the Boston Arena tonight.

Martin, one of our most aggressive [illegible] has always been a puncher, [illegible] this fact will enable him to battle his way to a high place in [illegible].

There are few boxers who [illegible] appear in Boston and New England [illegible] as Martin. This is due to the fact he always gives the boys who pay the freight a run for their money. He is not a boxer, but a fighting machine, and a regular scrapping fool on both [illegible].

Martin will receive plenty of opportunities to show his combative qualities this p. m. as Kramer has made a reputation as a heavy hitting, aggressive fighter. Since shifting his headquarters from the West End to Philadelphia, the former Boston [illegible] has been winning steadily. He has improved greatly in boxing form which has helped him greatly in getting over his big punch.

[illegible] Jack Dempsey [illegible] Frankie Conway of Philadelphia [illegible] exchanging blows with Frankie Mulcahy of East Boston [illegible] third meeting between [illegible] Their former two encounters resulted in [illegible] Both boys [illegible] Manager [illegible]

The other bouts [illegible] Irish Patsy [illegible] Jack White, New York [illegible] Walter Ireland [illegible] Paul Gallico [illegible] Paddy Mahoney [illegible] Eddie Burke [illegible] Billy Ward [illegible].

While the professionals are settling their differences the Arena, the best of our "pure" glove welders will be [illegible] at the St. Josephs A. A. show at Commercial Hall [illegible] square. There will be matches at 108, 115, 125 and 135 pounds.

President Bill Caddy reports a large number of entries. It is expected that there will be forty-five bouts which should give the fans plenty to cheer about.

The St. Josephs club staged a hang-up tournament last week and it is believed that the show tonight will furnish even more action.

[illegible] Jewett, Brookline [illegible] week's work [illegible] Boston Athletic Association [illegible] the suspension of the [illegible] Club has informed Manager [illegible] Kid that he can [illegible] bouts [illegible] Jewett [illegible] Leonard [illegible] the latter's [illegible] injury to his hands. The Bridgeport boy was declared [illegible] Leonard [illegible] the latter's [illegible] bouts and [illegible] opponent.

Bogash assistant [illegible] Club that he will be in Boston [illegible] Monday to complete his match [illegible] Malone bout. He declared that Malone is [illegible] and that he has never stood [illegible] Bogash can't [illegible] pass the word [illegible] fully against the Bay State [illegible].

Matchmaker [illegible] announces that the demand [illegible] has continued heavy and it is safe to say that one of the largest [illegible] that has ever witnessed a bout in the Arena will be present. Max Holden of Webster, a most [illegible] rooter for Bogash, will bring a party of his friends down with him for the show. George Plank, one of the [illegible] who designed the [illegible] Bogash rooter who will have a [illegible] party with him.

Johnny Meiiann matchmaker of the Faneuil A. A. [illegible] offered Jodie Metz, manager of Joe Lynch a purse for [illegible] ing offer for Lynch to do battle with Abe Friedman [illegible] weight ring on November 22. Mead turned down the offer saying he wants Lynch to have a go of it [illegible] under his belt before he would care to tackle Friedman.

X-COUNTRY RUNNING IS COMING INTO FAVOR AS COLLEGE SPORT

By HUGH S. FULLERTON

Last Saturday no fewer than thirty teams of college runners competed in cross-country events, a statement based upon reports from the section of the United States east of the Mississippi. How many more teams of this kind there are in that area is hard to guess, but the fact that there are so many is proof enough that cross-country running is pregnant with a large future as a college sport and a favorite pastime of the young Americans.

IF TIGERS REALIZE ON POTENTIAL STRENGTH THEY SHOULD WIN

Whose glassware will "bust" first?

That is the all-important question to which learned dopesters of tomorrow's Harvard-Princeton football battle will address themselves. The first battle of what has been termed by some wiseacre as "the alleged big three series."

In the Crimson dash there will be Princeton with [illegible] extremely attractive pieces of football furniture—but on so [illegible] Ex-service kickers with gaze worthy of [illegible] red meaners, with fullbacks [illegible] are booked for top-flight roles, and much depends on the length of time they remain intact.

No like unit in recent years has suffered so much from ills and injuries prior to a Princeton game as has the [illegible] Tigers. Before the battle with the Prince of Wales Stadium robust a starter [illegible]

The Crimson hospital list for nearly a week or two ahead at one time looked like a casualty [illegible] Harvard has been [illegible] and [illegible] Boston and [illegible] Only recently, however, have the Crimson's array of real-white cripples, Clark, Kane, Piersons, Crocker, Buell, Viets, Owen and Swiatek been scheduled to start tomorrow's fracas, while, of the Tigers' ex-crack-a-cripes Coupie, Garrity and Snively resume their all-important playing roles, and it will be interesting to observe how complete has been their recovery or how long limping legs will be able to stand the pressure of hard tackling and bone-jarring plays.

[illegible] and unless the prognosticator has definite knowledge of the health of [illegible] time such men will play, he has no real basis for estimating the outcome of tomorrow's [illegible] battle.

ONE night, on coming in for his evening meal, leg-weary and rubbernd and placid-minded from his long hours of labor in the open air, he found trivial in difficulties. She had cut a gash in her hand while trying to open a glass jar of fruit, and when he first caught sight of her she was struggling, none too successfully, to tear a strip of cotton over the wound. He stopped and stared at her as she knelt, one end of the cotton-strip between her strong white teeth and with her free hand attempted to draw the knot tight.

Then he took the wounded hand in his own and inspected the cut. And as he carefully unwrapped the hurt hand he found a sudden satisfaction in the calmness of her trembling body in his own.

He turned away hurriedly, in search of the knot he had tied, the strip of red stained cotton, disquieted by a reaction which could come with no little warning, for at least a superficial contact of flesh with flesh he had felt in his blood, remote and mysterious, the vestige of ancestral tom-toms. It was like answering to the presence of a precipice dangerously near to us.

FINANCE AND BUSINESS

By B. C. FORBES

Are you pinning your faith to the armament conference that starts in Washington next week? Frankly, not a few financial and business leaders await its deliberations with uneasiness.

* * *

The feeling is growing that the different nations are bringing so many axes to grind that serious friction may develop.

* * *

Instead of sticking to discussion of the feasibility of reducing expenditures of billions and billions upon engines of war, the conference threatens to become a second edition of the 1919 gathering in Paris, where all the troubles of the world were trotted out for "settlement." Japan's attitude, particularly towards China, is looked upon in business circles as containing combustible elements. France comes to the conference in an uncompromising mood regarding the future protection of her borders against all possible invasion from Germany. Britain has grave doubts concerning her tactics, but many believe that she will back up augers. The inter-allied war debts will be wiped off the slate, while, of course, she is not expected to accept any agreement which would not leave her navy in command of the seven seas. Our own administration's avowed aversion to having anything whatsoever to do with the League of Nations may, it is to be feared, complicate the smooth drawing up of international plans affecting the nations that are members of the League of Nations.

* * *

In financial and business circles keen interest is centered on the talk that the conference will resolve itself into more of a financial sedcrunt than a study of armament reductions. And the belief is that our administration will not be able to accept any of the European plans for rehabilitation of international finance, since every plan that is outlined has entailed a heavy financial burden on America, primarily for the benefit of other countries.

* * *

This extract from a letter I have just received from a very prominent man of large affairs correctly reflects views widely held in such circles:

"I think the coming disarmament conference in Washington is fraught with great adverse possibilities, although I hope that matters will turn out satisfactorily. I think Japan is coming with a good bit of bluff to demand rate equality and anti-aviation clauses, and that the European countries are bloated up with a demand for cancellation of war debts. I think eventually the conference will be of very great benefit, but it is quite apt to create some little disturbance."

* * *

You see, statements are going to be issued straight along covering the proceedings inside the conference chamber. Consequently if it is disclosed that bickering has broken out over, say, the cancellation of war debts or Japan's determination to strengthen her grip upon China, the effect upon sentiment may, it is foreseen, prove quite disturbing. This in turn, may affect the security markets and cause more or less trouble.

* * *

Many thoughtful persons also fear that, if the conference breaks up without accomplishing its original purpose, a British feeling will sweep over the world and bring about a very much worse state of affairs than had no conference on armaments been held.

* * *

Those who habitually see the future through rose-tinted glasses declare emphatically that this very knowledge of how disastrous failure would be is the strongest reason for confidently counting upon the members of the conference to avert such a catastrophe.

* * *

We shall see what we shall see.

Meanwhile, those who go in for trading in stocks and bonds alone would do well to consider the possibility here outlined. Also, if the business recovery seems to hesitate and falter, the main cause may be a disposition in important quarters to go slowly, pending a definite line on what course the monopoly conference at Washington is to take.

WAR FINANCE GROUP CUTS INTEREST RATES

By Universal Service.

Washington, Nov. 4.—On the heels of a reduction in rediscount rates by the Federal Reserve Board the War Finance Corporation has announced that it has reduced its interest rates on advances to banks for agricultural or live stock purposes.

In future the rate on all advances maturing in six months or less will be 6½ per cent, with an option or privilege of renewal. On other maturities, and with the privilege of renewal, the rate will be 5½ per cent. These rates represent a reduction of one-half of one per cent.

Copper Price Is Rising

It is reported that copper sold for 1925 delivery at 14½ cents a pound on Tuesday. This is the highest price obtained so far this year. Another statement is that 1,000 long tons per week 550,000 pounds for immediate delivery at 13 cents a pound. Rumors that metal can be obtained below 13 cents are said to be without foundation. Regarding the amount of copper on hand, one authority questions if the surplus available for domestic consumption is 200,000,000 pounds above what would be considered a normal supply. This does not include the 300,000,000 pounds held by the Copper Export Association for foreign shipment.

Stocks Advance in New York; Money 5%; Marks Lower

OILS LED LIST IN MORNING ACTIVITY

Rails, Steels, Tobaccos and Motors Are Steady; Gas Issues at New Highs

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

The New York market displayed moderate strength at noon, prices being below the early highs in all but a limited list of leaders, but were irregular as to price changes. Mexican Petroleum ranged from 104¼ to 110¾ during the morning. It closed yesterday at 107¾. For the whole list gains ranged from fractions to more than a point. Declines were few and small. Trading was active, first-hour transactions approximating 200,000 shares. Call money opened at 5 per cent. In the foreign exchange market sterling rates were a shade lower and German marks sold at a new record low. Demand sterling was up a little at $3.31¾.

MOVED UP AT START.

Prices moved up at the start, the market having a buoyant opening and becoming stronger. Oils were the early leaders and irregular in price movements. Mexican Petroleum continued to be the centre of trading interest. It began a fraction lower and backed off to 104¾ during the first hour, advancing more than a point during that period. At its worst it was down ¾. Domestic petroleums had a rather heavy tone. Foreign oils ruled a little higher. Rails, steels, tobaccos, motors and sugars were firm on a higher level and move comparatively quiet. Coppers were stronger and more active. But their gains averaged small. Hints for the year were made by People's Gas, Consolidated Gas, Brooklyn Union Gas, Consolidated Textile, Jones Bros. Tea, Endicott Johnson, Corn Products, California Packing, American Ice and Kresge.

PROFIT TAKING FOLLOWS.

The advance resulted in profit-taking on a large scale, and in the last half of the morning prices receded a fraction. The market had breadth as well as animation. Bonds continued in demand and several Liberty issues sold at new 1921 highs. Victory 4¾s sold at par on the large transactions. The weakness of German marks had no effect upon stocks. On the London exchange marks slumped badly, being quoted at noontime at 950 to the pound sterling. In New York they early established a new record price at the opening, selling at 1.47 cents. Reserve Bank statement was favorable, the reserve ratio of the system being 71.0, as compared with 70.7 a week ago. New York's rate was 82.1 against 82.3, but there was a slight decline for Boston, the ratio being 73.7 here, against 81.7 for the previous week.

JAPAN WORRIED BY BUSINESS, NOT ARMS

Evans Declares Yen Exchange Is Only Kept Up Artificially by Government

By C. B. EVANS.

Chicago, Nov. 4. — The Japanese current is now flowing throughout the whole world, in small trickles at many points to be sure, but everywhere present and everywhere exerting some influence on the economic and political weather.

A body of representative Japanese of high quality and representing financial and commercial interests is expected to reach this city today on the way to the city where the conference of limitation of armaments is to be held. These men are to the last degree pacific in their sentiments, but perhaps the timid among us may get a wrong impression, inasmuch as the delegates with their secretaries and other attaches are so numerous, coming from these far eastern countries.

But we may for the time being at least dismiss the idea that Japan has a large military force in mind, resulting to cut toward all points of the compass.

PROBLEMS ARE ECONOMIC.

It is true that we do well to make up its mind that the problems Japan has on hand are chiefly economic. Its affairs have been beset with unadvantageous skill in certain ways, but it is testimony of persons living in Japan but recently returning to the Occident, that Japan's business has not liquidated, that everything is on an extremely artificial basis and that another collapse is due in the not distant future.

It is a marvel to observers that yen exchange has been held up so close to par as it has been during the long period since the panic of April, 1920. This has been done by government intervention. On general principles, one would say that this artificiality must some time have the retribution in part this money has been thus supported through the possession of some billion dollars in the United States and London.

CHINA A LIABILITY.

But Japan is exposing itself to many serious hazards by its uncertain relations to many other countries, including the two which have loaned some of the most inert in Asia.

China is a liability rather than an asset to Japan's finances. You can determine the potency of any object by multiplying the utility into the mass. China has plenty of mass but no velocity. It is said that Japanese have made large loans to the Chinese, and many sanguine Japanese have invested large sums, which have not been paid for and will not be for a long time, this unfailing formula for economic performances in South America.

All these conditions have their effect on the business of the United States. We cannot afford a bad state of affairs in any country in the world. How these things are interrelated by those shadowy forces that control the stock markets is evidenced by the slackness of that market after the announcement that the discount rates of the Federal Reserve banks and the Bank of England had been reduced, the probability that open market rates will follow, even though with some little distance between.

TRADE IN MARKS.

This argues little confidence in the future. You may refer to the new low price of .47 for German marks, that is less than half a cent for a money that has for par 23.83. It may be noted that Germany is still moving out of Germany by buying at the low prices. Hence the sharp advance Thursday. The trade in marks in India only amounted to a few hundred active. One hears millions mentioned but a million means a good deal less now than it did seven or eight years ago.

The dullness and weakness of the New York Stock Market is not a story of distrust, but by Chicago we have something that is more powerful, namely, selling which signifies what has been signified many times before in the last few months, investors are picking and choosing and will not pick or choose too far into world problems.

The decline in the rates for money will help many industries, and it will help the world's temper of our capitalists if it will not help any other country more than it will help us. Many of the other regions where there is a good chance to increase our commerce are perilously fortunate for that large class of borrowers who have been crying and hoping for it, that the lenders may let down upon them a little now, or, if not, the open market will be a more promising place to hunt for accommodations.

WALL ST. GOSSIP

By MONITOR

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Thursday's stock market showed general firmness in spite of scattered instances of irregularity. The lower discount rates announced by the Federal Reserve banks found reflection more in increased activity in the investment issues than in the speculative operations in the stock market. The session brought forth several new features, chief among which was pronounced strength in the merchandising stocks. There was quite a spurt of activity in Woolworth, May Department Stores, Montgomery Ward, and Sears Roebuck. So small fractions as the S. S. Kresge stock moved up to a new high level.

IN the early trading the market had a somewhat unsettled appearance, but the strength displayed by a few of the strong issues found a sympathetic response elsewhere, and before the session was over specialties and motors developed an upward tendency.

IS all probability the effect of the reduction in the discount rates of the Federal Reserve Institutions might have been more pronounced if the step had not been generally anticipated. It was interpreted merely as a belated readjustment to the idea of the reserve ratio, and in line with the previously expected purpose of giving the business of the country the advantage of lower money rates whenever conditions warranted such step.

LITTLE attention was paid to the further decline in German marks.

THE weakness in wheat which carried prices to new levels undoubtedly has been aggravated by the abolition of "privileges" by the Chicago Board of Trade, bringing in with the provisions of the Capper-Tincher bill passed by Congress.

AN expected anomaly in the market is one which has been developing slowly in the tire and motor stocks is becoming more manifest. There is a general belief in the tire and rubber trade that general reductions in prices will be made during the next thirty days. This is responsible for the selling which appears in these stocks from time to time, but it is notable that the buying of these issues on recessions is much better than the selling at any time.

WHILE the tire and rubber stocks seem to be under steady pressure, the motors are well supported. General Motors was one of the leaders of the group Thursday on buying that looked like "long" time, but it is understood to be based on greatly improved prospects for the industry next year and is of a character which takes a position for the long pull rather than for the immediate fluctuations.

ON a report that the United States Food Products Company has obtained an extension on its $4,500,000 notes, which are due on account of $3,000,000 for working capital, the stock jumped 5 points to 30 on the day. It is generally understood that the plan worked out by which this financing is to be accomplished will prove attractive to stockholders. Under these arrangements there was fairly heavy selling of the stock later in the day.

THE chain store stocks all were stronger, S. S. Kresge Company being the leader, with an advance to a new high record for all time, being 4 54 per cent. stock dividend will be paid next month. There are only 100,000 shares of floating supply which makes it easy to advance. A considerable short interest has been built up on the rise from 440.

F. W. WOOLWORTH & CO. stock was another strong issue, jumping from 124 to 126, with no sales below 125, without any apparent buying or offerings. May Department Stores, gaining 2½ points lower, pays the same dividend, and it is reported that a speculative group recently has been formed by directors of the company met and declared the regular quarterly dividend of 32.

THE consolidation of Coaden & Co. with the Atlantic Refining Company was confirming officially. A new corporation will be formed, stock in which will be exchanged for that of the basis of three shares of Atlantic for five of Coaden. Action to this effect will be sent to stockholders within a few days.

MEXICAN PETROLEUM was strong in the afternoon on a report that two wells have been brought in in the unexplored territory south of its present holdings, thereby proving a new field. Another report was to the effect that British interests recently have acquired the control of the Mexican Petroleum Company's oil properties, but this was denied by those who are officially fortunate for that large class of borrowers who have been crying and hoping for it, that the lenders may let down upon them a little now, or, if not, the open market will be a more promising place to hunt for accommodations.

GOOD TONE TO COPPERS IN BOSTON

Local Market Gains in Strength During Morning; Trading Quiet on Curb

The Boston market had an irregular opening but soon responded to the advance in New York, developing a fairly active session during the morning. Trading did not increase in breadth however. Activity was principally confined to a few issues. Among those to make largest fractional gains were Adventure, Calumet & Arizona, Mohawk, Eastern Steamship, Allouez and American Sugar preferred. They were up a point or more. Edison rights sold at a new high. American Telephone sold at its previous high for the year. Point of more losses were shown by Mexican Investment and Warren Brothers first preferred. Coppers had a better tone. Dealings in oils were negligible. Swift & Co. got at its highest. Carson Hill was active.

Small gains were made by American Zinc, Lead & Smelting preferred, Copper Range, Isle Royale, North Butte, Eastern Manufacturing and Shawmut Textile. Dealings of the last-named company for the first ten months of this year are reported at 12,500 shares. Among stocks to decline fractionally were United Shoe, Trinity, Nipissing, International Cement, and Bingham Mines.

CURB MARKET QUIET.

The Curb market was quiet and irregular. During the morning a number of stocks receded and made the list somewhat heavy. Leaders were Alpha, Eureka, Hecla Divide and Mutual. At the end of the morning United Verde Extension was up 1 at 27, Alpha 7 cents at 4 on 7 cents, Top Top 1 cent at 4 cents, Seven Metals 1 cent at 8 cents and Chief 2 cents at 15 cents. Losses included Mutual 5 cents at 55 cents, Cascade 2 cents at 12 cents, Cortez 1 cent at 5 cents, New Rilla 1 cent at 66 cents, Daddy 1 cent at 6 cents and Bagdad 1 cent at 27 cents. Cortez and Hecla Divide recovered losses, and Boston & Montana lost what it had gained.

WHITE CEREALS CONTRIBUTE TO CANCER

Application May Be Held In Check by Proper Diet, B. U. Professor Says

Only by the elimination of white bread, white rice and white sugar from the diet of the American people can the dreaded and constantly increasing plague of cancer be held in check and the human race made immune to its attacks, according to the theory advanced by Dr. Horace Packard, professor of surgery at Boston University Medical School, at a meeting of the delegates to National Cancer Week in Evans Memorial, Concord street.

Dr. Packard said he believes that cancer is caused by a "wild cell" which is, he thinks, like the cell that causes reproduction of animals or the pollen of flowers.

He said he can be held in check, he added, by proper diet. He had present, he told the experts, a woman who had been operated upon for cancer and later was made immune to the disease by a proper diet.

This diet, he explained, consisted of all the nutritious elements of food, with white bread, white rice and other white cereals and white sugar eliminated.

$6 a Month is Salary of Professors in Vienna

New York, Nov. 4.—Six dollars a month is the average salary of university professors in Vienna, said Dr. Clemens Pirquet, Austrian child specialist, in an address here.

Dr. Pirquet came to America to deliver a series of lectures at Yale University.

These professors, together with many artists and writers, subsist at a "professors' mess," Dr. Pirquet said, where they are served a good luncheon for about two thirds of a cent. The mess is supported by American food drafts.

PRICE OF BREAD TO DROP WITH WHEAT COST

Dealers, However, Declare 5-Cent Loaf Is Still Far Away

Although wheat prices are rumbling almost daily, local bakers do not expect to see a general return to a five-cent loaf of bread. Reductions of a cent of two, however, may be expected soon.

Present prices for bread are much more variable than before the war and depend on the location as well as the quality of flour used, whether loaf is wrapped or not, and the amount of profit which the retailer must get.

Bread, in rare instances, is even now selling at five and six cents a loaf, but those dealers declare they do not make a profit. One market sells on Mondays and on other days until 10 o'clock in the morning a one-pound loaf for five cents. Another company sells the same kind for five cents.

In other stores, the large or twenty-inch loaf is sold for a pound, wrapped, while from thirteen to fifteen cents and the small or one-pound loaf at nine or ten cents. The chain bakeries generally quote the lower prices.

The cost of labor is an important item in the price of bread, one baker estimating that two cents went for labor for every loaf. The most favorable element is the fall in the price of flour, which has slipped down a dollar a barrel within a month, today's quotations being from $7.75 to $8.50 wholesale. The top price of $12 was paid at the time when the five-cent loaf was familiar, and about $11 was paid. Merchants do not expect to see this low price reached, but further reduction is expected.

Drunken Cows Give Clew to Stills at Westport

By Associated Press.

Westport, Nov. 4.—Four cows of a herd of Holsteins owned by Manuel Corey of this town have furnished officials with a clue which may result in discovery of an illicit still.

Corey reported that he found his cows staggering when he went to his pasture in the vicinity of Beulah road to drive them home for the night. One had bubbled at freely that she died soon afterward.

Two abandoned stills which had been raided by federal agents were found, but Corey and the constables aiding him in the search believe the cows know of the location of another still that is in active operation.

The Inconsistency of Mr. Pelletier

The public has learned to accept the inconsistencies of Mr. Curley as characteristic, and unredeemable. But we were not prepared for the inconsistencies of Mr. Pelletier, so suddenly and recently developed.

He becomes a candidate for Mayor of the city of Boston in order to present his record as District-Attorney of Suffolk County to his constituents for their judgment. The people of Boston are not alone his constituents, for Boston does not comprise the whole of Suffolk County. Nor are the issues in a campaign for Mayor anything like the issues involved in the investigation of Mr. Pelletier's conduct in the office of District-Attorney. His candidacy for Mayor is, therefore, inconsistent enough in itself.

But, as if this were not quite enough, he launches forth in an attack upon John R. Murphy upon the ground that Mr. Murphy has been endorsed by the Loyal Coalition.

Now, the Loyal Coalition never endorsed Mr. Murphy, nor did its president. Mr. Pelletier must know this, and he must also know that the alleged endorsement by Mr. Demarest Lloyd of Mr. Murphy was a fake, manufactured for the purpose of deceiving those who Mr. Pelletier thinks are so ignorant among our citizens that they cannot see a fake when it stares them in the face.

But, waiving consideration of the fact that the alleged endorsement of Mr. Murphy by the Loyal Coalition is a fake, consider how inconsistent is Mr. Pelletier's candidacy and his attack upon Mr. Murphy for this alleged endorsement by the Loyal Coalition. If he is seeking vindication for his conduct in the office of District-Attorney and is offering himself as Mayor in order to present his record as District-Attorney and to get the judgment of the people of his district upon that record, why is he attempting to get votes for himself by waving the bloody shirt of race and religious bigotry concerning a matter that has nothing whatever to do WITH HIS CONDUCT IN OFFICE. He is too good a lawyer not to know that a vote which he gets against Mr. Murphy by circulating a fake is not a vote that will vindicate HIS CONDUCT IN OFFICE.

The American believes that its readers will readily admit that if John R. Murphy deserved the endorsement of the Loyal Coalition on account of anything he has ever done or said or failed to do, or failed to say concerning the cause of liberty in Ireland, this newspaper would be the first to denounce him. This attempt to raise the race and religious issue is most sickening and disgusting.

This newspaper knows nothing against Mr. Pelletier's record in office. But if he continues to raise the race and religious cry against Mr. Murphy upon the basis of such fakes as this Loyal Coalition stuff, his best friends will begin to wonder why he does not stand on his record and discuss his record, and attack those who are attacking him for his CONDUCT IN OFFICE.

Let Mr. Pelletier stick to his own issue, which is the record he has made as District-Attorney. It is inconsistent enough for him to jump into the middle of the mayoralty campaign asking for votes to vindicate that record. But it is entirely out of order to attempt to mix up his record with issues having nothing to do with his record, nothing to do with the charges against him, and which are absolute, unqualified fakes.

Help Salvation Army

Charitable Organization With Wonderful Record Gets Into Closest Touch With Real Need

This week is being devoted by the members of the Salvation Army to raising what is called their Budget Fund of $200,000.

They are appealing to an appreciative public for aid. They ask for aid strictly on their record. They are entitled to all and more than they ask, on their record, for it is a wonderful record. Probably no organized charity gets so closely in touch with real need as the Salvation Army, and probably no organized charity is conducted with such a small overhead expense.

During the war, it enhanced its reputation until the whole country became its admirers. If you ask any number of our young men who saw actual fighting and actual privation in France what they think of all the organized charities rendering volunteer aid, you will find that their unanimous opinion is that above all stood the Salvation Army.

Their help was the promptest, the simplest, the most direct, the readiest. Their angels of mercy went farther into the zone of danger and carried to the soldiers the more practical comforts. Red tape bothered them the least. Actual need trombled them most. Their charity was the least of all "scrimped and iced in the name of a cautious, statistical Christ."

If you are disposed to help any organized charity, you ought to help the Salvation Army, for it is not a fashionable society, and it receives no gifts from the vanity of the giver.

Keep All Food Protected

Commissioner Mullowney Takes Right Attitude Against Its Exposure in Restaurants and Bakeries

The Boston American very much approves of the attitude taken by Deputy Health Commissioner Dr. Mullowney, concerning the enforcement of the law against the unhealthy exposure of food in our bakeries and restaurants.

Dr. Mullowney has properly characterized this exposure of food as a "filthy" habit. It is filthy and it is dangerous. The amount of dirt that flies in the air and is deposited on food and the amount of disease germs which reaches exposed food is almost beyond the imagination. If you want to get an idea of the amount of foreign matter in the air of a room, darken it and let a straight beam of sun cross it; then you will see in the narrow streak of light the air literally as full of dirt and dust as the sky is full of snow in a northeast snow storm in New England. This is true in a private house. How much more must it be true in a bakery or a restaurant where everybody is moving in and out with their dirty feet, carrying the filth of the streets.

The law requires that all showcases, shelves and other places where food rests shall be kept covered, properly ventilated and adequately protected from dust, flies and other contaminating matter, and shall at all times be maintained in a sweet, clean and wholesome condition.

Let the law be enforced—strictly enforced.

Always in Need of Aid

King Without a Realm

By REX HUNTER

BEFORE leaving New Zealand I saw a ceremony that may never be repeated—the crowning of a Maori "king."

How could a native king be crowned in an English possession? you might ask. Ah, the British government could afford to be magnanimous, for what was it all but the setting up of a monarch of straw?

The scene was Waahi, a settlement not far from Auckland. I drove there in a motor car accompanied by a military officer and a "medico." A little before noon, the time set for the ceremony, we arrived at a Maori village b, the side of a river. Already a crowd of white and native spectators had assembled. The members of the tribe were all arrayed in native dress—waist-mats and shoulder-capes of flax-fibre.

The full name of the chief who was to be crowned was Te Rata Mahuta Potatau Tawhiao te Wherowhero. A few minutes after noon Te Rata came forth, attended by a picked bodyguard of young men. The feathered shoulder-capes, worn toga fashion, left the right arm free to hold and swing the mere, or war-club. In the chief's hair were the regal, white-tipped, black tail-feathers of the rare huia.

A feast followed. Sitting on mats, we devoured roasted pig, crabs cooked in leaves and kumeras. As the first stars came out, there lay down to rest a king whose kingdom had been taken from him and whose people were doomed to extinction.

Mistakes in Love Costly

By Winifred Black

Copyright, 1921, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

"WIDOWS ought to marry widowers, and widowers ought to marry widows."

Then the chances are equal.

"When a woman forty years old, and comfortable and fairly contented without a husband, she ought to stay without one for the rest of her life.

"As a rule she does. I don't know whether it's because she wants to or because she has to.

"A man? Well, a man never has sense enough to know when he's well off, and is apt to marry even if he's as old as Methuselah.

"No man really knows anything about a woman except a widower and he forgets it all when he gets ready to marry again.

"No woman really knows anything about men except a widow, and she has to forget what she knows before she is willing to marry again.

"A woman may be fooled in her first marriage, but very seldom on subsequent ones, because it is her nature to profit by experience.

"A woman gains a little sense as the years pass over her head, but a man gets foolisher and foolisher, the older he grows."

Thank you, Mr. Dan L. Camp, for your letter and for these words of wisdom.

Never Seem to Learn

I don't agree with all of them, though.

You're right in what you say about a woman learning something as she goes along. Most women are not natural-born fools have forty-year-old brains when they get to be forty years old. Enght out of ten men seem to keep the brains of a boy of eighteen, as far as women are concerned, up to the very day of their death.

No man never really knows anything about a woman, any time, anywhere, anyhow. And no woman ever really understood any man, no matter how many years she lives with him. Men have an entirely different point of view from women, and see things in entirely a different light from men. If they didn't there wouldn't be any fun in life at all. Who wants to live with someone who's a copy or a duplicate and nothing in the least different or original?

No, Mr. Camp, I think you're wrong when you say that a woman may be fooled in her first marriage but very seldom fooled in her second.

Nine chances to one, there is something about her that attracts the wrong kind of man, and there's something about the wrong kind of man that attracts her—and that's all there is to it. I know a sweet, gentle; quiet little woman who's been married three times. The first man she married was a gambler who was killed in a dispute at the races.

When he had been dead a year, she married her first husband's old side-partner, who was a racing man. Him she divorced for extreme cruelty.

Some Attract Wrong Type

I met her the other day with her third husband. He is the owner of a circus and from the tilt of his hat and general cut of his jib I should take him to be a rather a lively person, not suited to domestic life.

There is something about her that attracts that type of man, and she's too good-natured and kind-hearted to say No.

Have you ever noticed, Mr. Camp, that unhappy marriages run in families? No, it isn't all the force of example. Some of it is born in the blood, like a love for the bright lights, or a craze for camping.

Widows and widowers—pshaw, maybe they ought to marry each other, but they seldom do, if they can help it. What a pity it is that what we ought to do and what we want to do are sometimes so entirely different.

Old Tongues Last Long

SHELTA THARI is a language used secretly among people of the tinker class, and principally to be met with in Scotland and Ireland. Its use was first discovered and made known in 1876 by Charles K. Leland, an American antiquarian, and Professor John Sampson of Liverpool.

One day, while walking by the seashore at Aberystwyth, they encountered a tramp who addressed them in an unknown tongue. Both were versed in the Romany or Gypsy language, and were much surprised to meet one who spoke a tongue of which they knew not a word.

They collected a number of phrases from this man and found on inquiry that he had acquired this strange speech from his wife, who was a tinker. The tinkers, he said, kept their knowledge of the language a secret, speaking it only among themselves. Later Leland encountered many other persons who spoke Shelta. He found that in many of the public houses in the East end of London, where vagrants often congregate, the language was freely employed, but when an outsider made his appearance, it was ceased at once to be spoken.

Scientific methods applied to the study of Shelta proved that it is no mere system of back slang or cant, but an ancient Celtic speech.

Tumulty and Creel Think Alike on Wood--Even to Commas

Washington Interested in Apparent "Dual Personality" Shown in Book by Wilson's Secretary and Writings of Publicist; Words Identical

(Reprint from New York Tribune of October 31.)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Political circles in the capital today are buzzing over an extremely perplexing question.

Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to President Wilson, has written a book, entitled "Woodrow Wilson Disclosed," the first installment of which as it appeared in The New York Times this morning declared that General Leonard Wood was held on this side of the Atlantic during the World War at the instance of General Pershing.

There is nothing surprising or perplexing about this statement. It is virtually the same as that made by every member of the Wilson Administration when pressed into a corner ever since the controversy over General Wood became a public issue. General Pershing, of course, has remained silent.

However, what is both surprising and perplexing is the discovery that Mr. Tumulty's words, phrases and ideas are identical with those of George Creel on the same subject, as revealed in the latter's book, "The War, the World and Wilson," published a year ago. The parallelism is not merely confined to a paragraph or so, but extends to the full purported history of the Wood incident.

Nobody accuses Mr. Tumulty of plagiarism, not merely because there would have been nothing to be gained by such a course, but also because a mentality of Mr. Tumulty's acumen would easily have envisaged the possibilities involved in "cribbing" from his fellow panegyrist of Mr. Wilson. In fact, the assumption seems to be general that Mr. Tumulty probably never read Mr. Creel's book, at least not all through.

What people are asking in a perplexed and surprised sort of way is, Was there some "mother memorandum" from which both authors drew not only their inspiration, but their very words, phrases, sentences and punctuation? So eager did the speculation become that the question was propounded to Mr. Tumulty for his solution.

His denial as to the "mother memorandum" was positive and specific. He was certain that he did not consult such a document, if any such existed. As to the similarity between his thoughts on the matter and those of Mr. Creel, nay, the similarity of his words and commas to those of Mr. Creel, he felt that there was no reason why they should not think alike, both being in possession of the same facts.

Anyway, here is Mr. Tumulty's denial:

"There is no reason why the two narratives should not be alike. Creel knew the facts and I knew the facts. There is no memorandum on the subject, so far as I know. I certainly did not consult any memorandum. Creel knew all about it, and so did I, and the two versions would necessarily be much alike."

And, for the benefit of those who are interested in the rather perplexing problem which some describe as almost a case of "dual personality," here are the two sets of thoughts on the Wood incident arranged side by side:

By GEORGE CREEL

General Wood was not sent to France for the very good reason that General John J. Pershing, commander of the American Expeditionary forces, did not ask to have him sent, plain indication that he was neither needed nor wanted in France. The decision was not the decision of the President, nor the Secretary of War, nor the Chief of Staff, but the weighed judgment of General Pershing, the soldier selected for the high post of field command and given full power even as he was held to full responsibility. . . .

At the time of General Pershing's departure for France I knew, as did every one else in government, that it had been made plain to him that he would not be hampered by home meddling. Even as he was held to full responsibility, so was he given full power in the selection of those men upon whom he would have to depend. His list, therefore, was approved as a matter of course. . . .

As I remember it, the whole trouble arose from the fact that General March treated the circumstances as one of military routine entirely, utterly failing to realize its political importance. Instead of informing General Wood at once that he had not been chosen to go to Europe, he followed the established procedure and waited for the completion of the training period before issuing orders to the division commanders. General Wood, however, left Camp Funston at a word of the division and without waiting to receive his orders. General March sent them to him in New York, and in consequence there was an appearance of eleventh-hour action, an effect of jerking General Wood from the very deck of the transport. . . .

General Wood carried his complaint to the President and was told plainly that the list would not be revised in the personal interest of any soldier or politician. When the President took office in 1913 the entire army man that he knew was General Hugh L. Scott. Wood was then Chief of Staff, and, owing to many and bitter complaints against him, the President sent for Scott and asked for information and advice with respect to the retention of Wood. General Scott, a generous and kindly man, urged the President to take no action, and Wood was permitted to remain in the office until his term expired in 1914.

By JOSEPH P. TUMULTY

General Wood was not sent to France for the good and sufficient reason that General John J. Pershing, commander of the Expeditionary Forces, did not ask to have him sent, which . . . was a plain indication that he was neither needed nor wanted in France. The decision with reference to General Wood was not the decision of the President, nor the Secretary of War, nor the Chief of Staff, but it was the judgment of General Pershing, the general whom the President had selected for a high post in command, and to whom he gave full responsibility. At the time of General Pershing's departure for France the President made it plain to him that, as commander of the Expeditionary Forces, he was not to be hampered by meddling politicians from this side nor political nor partisan interference of any kind. He was given full power in the selection of those generals upon whom he should have to depend. His list, therefore, was approved as a matter of course.

As I recall it, the whole trouble in the Wood matter arose out of the apparent humiliation of General Wood due to his recall after he had taken his division to New York, preparatory to sailing for the other side. General March treated the circumstances of General Wood's case as a matter of mere military routine, failing to realize its political importance. Instead of informing General Wood at once that he had not been chosen to go to France, he followed the established procedure and waited for the completion of the training period before issuing orders to the division commanders. General Wood, however, left Camp Funston without waiting to receive his orders. General March sent them to him in consequence there was an appearance of eleventh-hour action, an effect of literally pulling General Wood from the deck of the transports.

General Wood carried his complaint to the President and was told plainly that the list would not be revised in the personal interest of anybody. The day General Wood conferred with the President I discussed the matter with the General. . . . The General said: "I know who is responsible for this. It is that man Pershing." When I assured the General that there was nothing in the President's attitude toward him that was in the least degree unfriendly, and called his attention to the fact that when the President took office in 1913, and Wood was Chief of Staff, although there were many bitter complaints made against him, the President acted upon General Hugh L. Scott's recommendations and General Wood was permitted to remain in office until his term expired in 1914.

THE VALUE OF ENCOURAGEMENT

Every worker likes to feel that he represents, to his boss, something more than a mere machine for turning out so much work in a given time.

Employers who have given thought to the matter realize that it means a lot to the employe to receive a kindly word from the "Old Man" or the "Man in the Private Office."

If those who employ great numbers of men would go through their industries once in a while and give a smile and a pleasant word of recognition here and there to their men, even to those in the most humble jobs, there would be more and better work done.

An employer can bring a lot of happiness to his men by this practice, providing it is done in genuine good spirit.

The man who has been spoken to kindly or who has had a smile from the man at the top goes home with a better feeling in his heart for his employer.

It is with real pleasure that he tells his wife and daughter.

The employer who recognized the human element is successful.
